BEANS WATERS, beach attendant for the Royal Hawaiian who gathered the funds for the raft which was anchored in front of the Outrigger Canoe club for the last three months, is convinced that it is impossible to keep a float securely anchored at Waikiki.

Many beach habitues have moaned their regrets over the untimely passing of the popular raft which piled up on the beach during the rough weather Wednesday.

That raft was built with cash contributed by about 150 pubic spirited beach goers, and the largest donations came from R. M. Walker of the Walker-Stewart department store of Los Angeles who put $100 in the pot when he was visiting here last February.

Fujimura, the boat builder, constructed it well and it was anchored with cement blocks. Hundreds of swimmers enjoyed the raft daily.

"I don't think it's possible for any raft to stay anchored at Waikiki," commented Beans. "There are bound to be bad storms, and due to the exposed position, it's unpractical and almost impossible to keep a raft there for any length of time."

bara and Janet Haskins of Los Angeles; Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Hecht, and Miss Ryda Hecht of Baltimore.

Mrs. Sigmund Kann and Mrs. Louis Kann of Baltimore; Miss Jean Marks and Mrs. William McCafferty of Los Angeles; the Misses Mary, Agnes, Eileen and Kathleen Meehan of New York.

Paul Moss, New York; Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Ripley, Miss Gail Ripley and John K. Ripley of Hartford, Conn.; Mr. and Mrs. Edward D. Stevens and Edward D. Stevens, Jr., of Portsmouth, O.; Mrs. Elizabeth A. Walker, Miss Martha Wehapp, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Williams and Ben Williams, Jr., of Los Angeles; Miss Teressa Wilke, Beverley Hills.

DIZON SAYS MONCADO