CLUB VOTES ON AMENDMENTS

Important Changes Up For Outrigger's Decision On July 25

Four proposed amendments to the bylaws of the Outrigger Canoe club will be voted upon at the annual meeting of the club July 25 at 3 p. m.

Election by the senior members of four directors to serve three years will also take place on the same day.

One of the proposed amendments will give the board of directors power to assess the members from time to time, not to exceed the total sum of $6 for each member for any fiscal year.

This amendment has been found necessary, according to the report of the directors, because of a large loss of senior members and decline in the income of the club.

"The granting of this power does not necessarily mean that it will be used," it continues.

If the club is able to obtain a large number of new members, according to the report, the club will be enabled to go on without any additional assessment.

Another proposed amendment will provide that five directors will constitute a quorum instead of seven as at present. The secretary will be required by the third amendment to post a typewritten list of the regular ticket of the candidates for the board at least 10 days before the date of the annual meeting.

The fourth proposed amendment changes details of procedure in the handling of the election, such as the appointment of three judges of election by the president, the care of the ballot box, and procedure in case of a tie vote.

Candidates for directors are Roy R. Banks, Cecil G. Benny, Philip G. Brooks, Randolph Crossley, Charles S. Dawes, T. G. Singlehurst and I. M. Stainback.

Senior members may vote at any time between 12:30 and 7:30 p. m. at the office of the club grounds.