Short Course Only for Cline Mann Paddleboard Race

By Angie Dolan Giancaterino

Travis Grant was the first to finish in the Cline Mann Paddleboard Race.

Jamie Mitchell, 10-time winner of the Cline Mann Ko'olaupoko prone race, was second in the SUP division this year. He's joined in the lunch line by Noa and Sean Ginella. Noa competed in SUP and Sean in the prone division.

The girls were there to greet Amy Lawson Woodward on winning the women's 19-39 SUP division: from left, Ali Rigg, Jen Rigg and Kristin Lee Watumull.

Permitting issues forced the OCC Paddleboard Committee to push the date of the Cline Mann Memorial Ko'olaupoko Paddleboard Race a week later to July 18, 2015. Due to the new race date being one week out from the Molokai Crossing, the prestigious, 18-mile long course race and perpetual trophy were deferred to next year.

However, those dedicated to the history of the Memorial Paddleboard Race fared well. Strong winds and a pushing tide brought out a solid and even turnout of prone and standup paddlers alike.

First across line of the nine-mile short course was Outrigger's own Travis Grant on an unlimited standup, with a time of 01:10:38. OCC member Christian Bradley took fifth overall and first in the SUP Stock division with a time of 1:18:57.

Mick Di Betta took the Prone Unlimited title at 1:25:39, followed by prone stock winner Fletcher Davies with a time of 1:25:49. Sixteen-year-old OCC member Hunter Pflueger won the Junior Division and rounded out the top three prone finishers, coming in at an impressive 1:27:02 in the prone stock division.

On the women's side, Terrene Black crossed the line first on a SUP unlimited at 1:23:39 while stand-out Outrigger Canoe Club paddler Amy Lawson Woodward, claimed second overall and first on the SUP Stock 19-29 division in her premier SUP race. Colleen Tessler took the prone stock title coming in 15th overall in the prone division.

All racers and volunteers enjoyed a lively post-race party with live music from fellow paddle-boarder-turned musician Mikey Cote.

Congratulations to all racers and a big mahalo to the volunteers who made this race happen.

Hunter Pflueger won the Boys 18 and under division for the third straight year and got his name on the Cline Mann Junior Trophy.

Christian Bradley won the Stock SUP 18-39 Division.

Nat Yee won the Boys 18 and under prone unlimited board division.
