

the Outrigger

NOVEMBER 2004

Published by the Outrigger Canoe Club for Members and Guests at Home and Abroad

DADDY WOULD PLAY

By Brad Lawson & Kisi Haine
Photos By Brad Lawson

The 10th Annual Tom "Daddy" Haine 4-man beach volleyball tournament got underway on Sunday, September 5, 2004, and there was surely some stiff competition.

Fourteen teams competed in the tournament that lasted from dawn until dusk.

The night before the tournament, teams were drawn and bets were placed during the traditional barbeque at the home of Marc and Kim Haine. The bets ranged from $30 all the way to $330. The highest bet went to the favorites: Marc Haine, Chris Crabb, Stevie Lee, and Dan Terry.

The tournament was an epic battle to the finish. The final game that decided the winner of the tournament was a remarkable comeback. The team of Alik Williams, Ralph Smith, Kaione Scott, and Diana McKibbin managed to comeback from a score of 9-14 in a rally scoring game to win the tournament with the final score of 18-16. Unbelievable.

Hundreds of spectators cheered and watched nervously throughout the final match. It was the biggest turn out that the Club has ever seen for the Daddy Haine tournament.

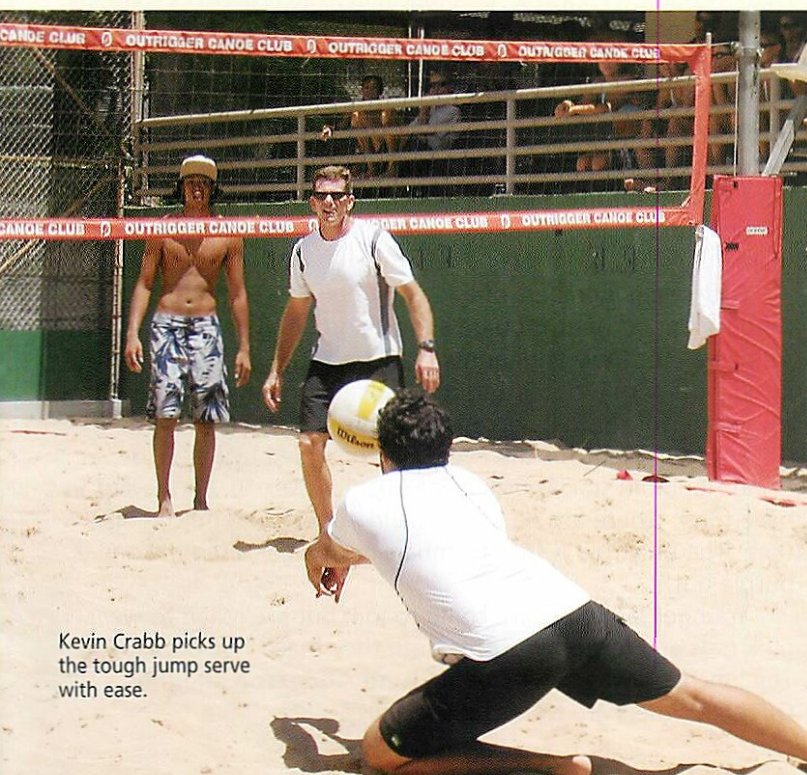

Daddy Haine would have been very proud of everyone's participation, performance and most of all, sportsmanship. No doubt he was smiling throughout the day.

A special thanks to Wendy Crabb for making the 10th Annual "Daddy Would Play" T-shirt. Ralph Smith, a member of the winning team, was wearing the 1st Annual "Daddy Would Play" T-shirt. Aaah, maybe that was his advantage!

Again, a big mahalo to all those who participated, cheered and lent their support to make this tournament a success. We hope to see you all next year.

Daddy's plaque on the volleyball court wall recognizes him as the Ambassador of Volleyball who helped promote volleyball in Hawaii. His Olympic volleyball jacket hangs alongside the plaque. He represented the U.S. playing the game he loved.

Kevin Crabb picks up the tough jump serve with ease.

The winning Daddy Haine team included Kaione Scott, Diana McKibbin, Alik Williams, and Ralph Smith.

The team of Groms included Brad Lawson, Trevor Crabb, Reese Haine and Tri Bourne.

On the Cover: Marc Haine continues the Haine family tradition by putting the ball away against the solo block in the annual Tom "Daddy" Haine Volleyball Tournament. Story and more photos on page 3. Photo by Brad Lawson