Issued by the BOARD OF DIRECTORS

FORECAST — Ed Greaney, Chairman; Norman Godbold, III, Harvey Wilson, Pat Wyman, Traylor Mercer.

DIRECTORS

Here are the highlights of the Board of Directors meetings from the minutes thus far approved.

A report that non-members had paddled under the Outrigger Canoe Club banner at the Territorial Canoe Championships on Kauai was placed before the Board by Fred Hemmings.

Ward Russell, acting for club president R. Q. Smith in his absence, called a meeting of the board.

After due deliberation, the directors repremanded Club Captain Ron Sorrell and Coach George Downing as disciplinary measure.

In other board action, directors approved the following recommendations set forth by Tommy Thomas of the House and Grounds Committee:

The purchasing and installation of luau torches — cost not to exceed $605.

Expenditure of $350 dollars for a one year termite control service.

Purchase of a beer cooling system for the Hau Terrace.

Assorted locker room repairs.

Waikiki—Fall, 1958: The beach which just a few weeks ago was teeming with vacationing college and high school youngsters, settles back to being its normal, quiet self with only a few registrants utilizing the sun during their last free moments.

Emmie and Ernie White have returned to the Islands to make their home after an absence of 3½ years. Ernie is Pacific Sales area Manager for Fibreboard Paper Products Corp. of San Francisco.

We enjoyed having Lucille and Bob Johnston of Los Angeles with us this past month. Being good friends of Bill Capp and Pat Patterson they have made numerous trips to visit their friends here at the Outrigger. The Johnstons depart via the Hawaiian Rancher, visiting Kauai and Hilo.

Peter Coleman, governor of Western Samoa, was a recent guest of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Freeth for dinner in the Outrigger Dining Room.

Popular vocalist Tony Martin and his lovely actress wife Cyd Charisse spend much of their island vacation relaxing in the Hau Terrace. Island interpreneurs are hoping Martin will play an engagement soon at the Royal Hawaiian Hotel.

Mrs. Wendell Brooks, chairman of the women's committee for the Honolulu Community Theatre, planned a luncheon for 54 members of the theatre group on September 20. Many of the guests arrived early to play bridge on the club sundeck.

The wife of Rear Admiral Robert F. Hickey, commander of Fleet Air Hawaii, recently gave a luncheon for 23 in the club dining room.

ALOHA WEEK BIGGEST YET

Waikiki begins primping soon for one of its most busy and event-packed weeks of the year—Aloha Week, October 19-25.

Here is a partial list of events for the week.

Oct. 17—Old Timers Luau at OCC, Happy Hour, Music, Roasting, Dancing.

Oct. 18—Dockside ceremonies for arriving liners Orcades and Matsonia. Hawaiian Show at the Hawaiian Village at 10 a.m. Preparations festivities on Molokai for paddlers departing in the annual race to Oahu. Dinner and dancing in the Outrigger Dining room.

Oct. 19—The race begins at dawn, with canoes arriving at Duke Kahanamoku Beach at about noon, greeted by Aloha Week court. Aloha Week buffet at the OCC. Music from 4-8 p.m. by Dan Kinolau.

Oct. 20—Polynesian demonstrations at the Hawaiian Village. First of daily shows downtown at Bishop Street and Waikiki at International Market Place at 2 p.m.

Oct. 21—Dinner at the Outrigger 6-9 p.m. try the lau-lau, lomi salmon and poi, then attend the old Hawaiian Pageant at the Waikiki Shell, 8 p.m.

Oct. 22—Aloha Week bridge night on the sun deck. Hula Festval at the Shell. Oct. 23—Buffet Supper at the Outrigger, Aloha Shirts, please. Iolani Palace pageant depicting old costumes of Hawaii, climaxed by the reenactment of the coronation of King Kalakaua and Queen Liliuokalani.

Oct. 24—Happy Hour, Andy Cummings group playing favorite Aloha Week songs. Youth Night at the Waikiki Shell 8 p.m., coronation of Prince and Princess.

Oct. 25—Aloha Week Parade 10 p.m. downtown. Aloha Week Ball at the Royal Hawaiian Hotel.

OLD TIMERS LUAU

One hundred of Waikiki's colorful "Old Timers" will be honored at the Outrigger Canoe Club's gala 50-year celebration on October 17.

Early enthusiasm for the party indicates that it will be one OCC event just not worth missing.

A full house of 500 is expected and club members remembering how fast tickets for the last luau went have begun filing reservations for the "Old Timer" party.

Here's part of what to expect:

A happy hour, three Hawaiian music groups, dancing under the stars and outstanding kanaka kuisine.

"Happy hour" will kick off festivities at 4 p.m. with drinks reduced to 40 cents and beer to 25 cents. Music will be furnished by "Oldtimer" Andy Cummings and his quartet.

Kalua pig, lomi salmon, poi, haupia, and all of the delicacies that make a luau a luau will be served between 7 and 9 p.m. Continuous entertainment by "youngsters" and "oldtimers alike will last throughout and more than one impromptu hula is expected.

Elmer Lee and his hula troupe, a perennial favorite in the islands, will be on hand during the luau.

The celebration carries over into the sundeck where members will dance 'neath Hawaiian skies to the music of Randy Oness.

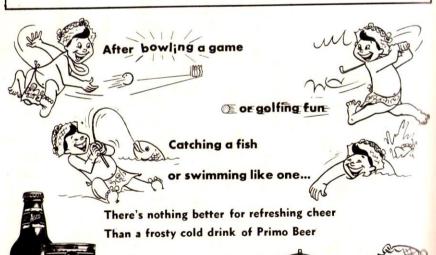

It will be one night you just won't forget. And already tickets are going fast. They're only $4.00 per person so make your reservations now!

Aloha Week Royalty in an offshore greeting of the Lurline. Such pageantry will mark the annual festival October 19-25.

VOLLEYBALL PATTER

The Outrigger Canoe Club's men's novice volleyball six enters its final test of the regular 1958 season still protecting a thus far unblemished record.

However the novice team will be without the services of three of its top hitters for the round robin championship series.

Woody Godbold, Al Lemes and Richard Sylva have all returned to their studies at mainland colleges.

With their sights on the city trophy, coach Doc Beardmore has knockled down the squad to scrimmaging with the club's open volleyball six.

In the women's novice division, the OCC six is tied for second place. The final round of the novice tourney will decide who qualifies for the round robin matches.

Spectators say that the girls have improved steadily throughout the season and chances for a title year are apparently good.

The volleyball committee is calling for recruits into the senior women's volleyball team which opens its season this month. The tournament will be played under modified AAU rules.

A new ruling governing the borrowing of new volleyballs from the club office is being tried out. New balls should be signed out with whoever is on duty and checked in upon return.

REMINDER

Your Canoe Committee is developing an up-to-date list of qualified canoe steersmen. If you consider yourself qualified to steer a canoe in the surf, please register on the list at the lobby desk.

A qualifications committee consisting of Toots Minvielle, Steamboat Mokuahi and Bill Prange will review all qualifications. On 1 November 1958 a list of eligible steersmen will be placed at the Beach Services Office, after which date canoes will not be released to persons not listed as qualified.

HAPPY 68th, DUKE

(Reprinted from the Honolulu Advertiser)

Duke P. Kahanamoku, the man who became Hawaii's best known citizen 46 years ago by sweeping swimming events at the Olympic Games in Stockholm, is 68.

He celebrated his birthday . . . at Kona, on the water he has loved since his boyhood at Waikiki. The difference is that now he's piloting an outboard-powered catamaran that's his current pride.

It's a wonderful device, says Duke. For it's a fiine fishing boat, and you can surf with it almost as well as with a board.

Duke became a world figure—one who caught the imagination of Europeans and Americans alike—when he broke the records for the 50 yard, the 100 yard and the 100 meter freestyle events at the 1912 Olympics.

His achievement caused jubilation in Hawaii, but it was no surprise. For he had broken world records over the same distances the year before, on Aug. 12, 1911, swimming in Honolulu Harbor. His times then were so startling that the AAU at first declined to credit them, though they were recorded by five qualified timers.

Duke, the eldest of six sons, was named for his father, who was a captain of the Honolulu police department by the time Duke smashed the records in Stockholm. "He's a pretty good boy," said Capt. Kahanamoku.

Duke kept his Olympic crown until 1924, when Johnny Weissmuller came along, and he continued competition until 1932, when he was a gray-haired member of the U.S. water polo team at the games in Los Angeles.

He appeared in movies, he saved eight lives in a California yacht disaster by "using a few tricks" with his surfboard, and he's been sheriff of Honolulu since 1934.

He's still Hawaii's best known citizen.

An OCC surfer skims across a 25 foot breaker at Makaha.

MAKAHA SURF SEASON APPROACHING

It's still a month away, but you can feel the big surf season at Makaha approaching.

Boards are disappearing from their lockers for touch up jobs at home or in the club shop.

Records of big surf in past years are thumbed over daily, the surf watching fraternity is out in full force.

November to them is like Christmas early—and every day. It means breakers up to 25 and 30 feet crashing on the leeward side of the island in quiet Makaha.

Winter surf! It rises comparatively close to the Makaha shoreline, then crashes into a half moon shaped cove that provides a natural grandstand for sun shaded spectators, a "natural" for the international championships.

Already surfers have met to put their stamp of approval on the entry fee for the sixth annual championships at Makaha November 22-23 and 29-30.

More than 150 of the top surfers from Hawaii, California and assorted surf capitals are entered annually in the "big surf's" peak.

And the Outrigger is expected to enter its usual raft of outstanding performers including perennial men's open champion, Rabbit Kekei, Blackout Whaley and Gilly Halpern, Bill Danford, and Tim Guard in men's junior events. Cynthia Hemmings a yearly standout in the women's direction.

Other events listed for the meet are mixed tandem riding, body surfing, and mat surf riding.

Youngsters ruefully watch their peers from the shoreline. But surfing has not excluded them. The champions they watch were learning to handle boards at ages 6 to 9.

George Downing, Outrigger canoe and surf coach, and perhaps Hawaii's most outstanding surfer of modern times, took a break between sanding and surfacing boards to unravel a schooling program for the clubs eagerto-learn youngsters.

"I'm going to take the kids out to Makaha and Haleiwa and all of the other big surf spots on weekend trips. It's better to take them out there and show them, you know, than to have them try for themselves.

"We'll show them how, point out the danger spots and different types of waves," Downing said. He smiled: "You know, if you don't, they're going to go right out and try for themselves-without supervision.

"It's better this way-surfing's for everybody, especially kids."

NEW SURF COMMITTEE

A five man committee of Outrigger members has been formed to establish and oversee the mechanics of the forthcoming international surfing championships at Makaha.

The birth of the committee-the first of its kind—came out of a proposal by the Waikiki Surb Club, annual sponsors of the surfing championships.

Named to the committee were Ron Sorrell, Johnny McMahon, George Downing, Doug Forbes, and Wally Forsieth.

Surfing enthusiasts will see performers like Ed "Blackout" Whaley and George Downing of the Outrigger in action at the Sixth Annual International Surfing Championships at Makaha, November 22-23 and 29-30. George, who is holder of numerous American, Hawaiian and world titles, was recently named to the inpervisory committee for the event. Past visitors to the Makaha event will remember "Blackouts" form and grace in being a perennial contender.

Dr. and Mrs. G. F. Straub, long time Outrigger members, are nightly diners in the Outrigger's redecorated dining room.

DUES HIKE COMPARED

Remember the recent hike in the Outrigger Canoe Club's monthly dues assessments? You might like to check it against similarly ranked private clubs on the mainland.

A survey conducted by Horwath and Horwath, consultants in the hotel and private club field, recently appeared in the September 6 issue of Business Week magazine. In part, here are the firm's findings:

"The survey found that if a member of a medium-sized "average" paid $500 in 1957 dues, $205 of his money went to make up losses from clubhouse operations (mainly bar and dining room); $155 went for golf and ground expenses; $10 covered miscellaneous outside activities; $80 was used to pay off fixed obligations, and $50 was left over for depreciation and other purposes.

"Generally, most departments of a . . . club-bar, dining room—are not self supporting and must draw on dues income to break even.

"Of the 52 clubs surveyed, 11 levied special assessments in 1957. However, most of the 11 clubs limit their dues and regularly use assessments to make up operating losses. None of the remaining 41 clubs found it necessary to levy assessments.

"Only eight of the 52 increased their annual dues—with the booth in a range from $12 to $120. Initiation fees were raised by 10 clubs $30 by two clubs, $100 by two, $150 by one, $250 by one, $500 by one and $1,000 by three."

AVENT CONSIDERING NEW PROPOSAL

California financier John V. Avent has asked Outrigger Canoe Club directors to consider a new proposal before moving from its present location.

Present club plans have called for the shifting to the Elks Club site near the natatorium and constructing a $750,000 dollar clubhouse and accompanying facilities.

The date for the shift was set for 1963 when Mr. Avent withdrew his earlier proposal to buy the remaining time on the Outrigger lease for $200,000 and help the club to garner a loan of another $200,000. But the deal apparently fell through when the Matson Navigation Company asked for $100,000 for its consent to the arrangement, Mr. Avent said.

He has indicated to club directors that he has a new proposal in the offing. The details have not yet been disclosed.

Both Mr. Avent and Paul Trousdale of the Waikiki Development Company said "We hope to work out some type of agreement with the Outrigger Canoe Club whereby the club will be furnished with suitable new club facilities."

Both Mr. Avent and the architectural firm of Law and Wilson have confirmed that three large mainland oil firms and a number of insurance companies have expressed interest in leasing apartment in the $3,000,000 cooperative luxury apartments that the california businnessman has planned for the present Outrigger Canoe Club site.

President R. Q. Smith told Mr. Avent that the Outrigger Board of Directors will establish a committee to consider such a proposal if it was put in detailed form before them.

In addition, Ward Russell, acting club president in the absence of Mr. Smith and vice president Martin Anderson said: "We will listen to a proposal if it is in the best interest of the club."

ENTERTAINMENT COMMITTEE LAUDED

The staff of the Forecast this month salutes Hal Whittaker, chairman of the revamped entertainment committee.

Members of long standing as well as recent initiates have had nothing but praise for the work done by the committee in adding a very perceptible (and finacially successful) spark of life recently instituted in the club's entertainment calendar.

Saturday and Sunday afternoons have brought record crowds to the "jumping" Hau Terrace. More than two hundred were counted during last Sunday's cocktail hour. Twice that number have constantly been in evidence at the Friday afternoon Happy Hours.

A brand new salad bar in the dining room, tasteful decorations and a round of novelty events have brought back "nearly dead" members into the realm of the living.

"It's a whole new club" remarked one.

And hats off to Hal and his committee.

lack and Marcia Cross step back for seconds from the stew pot. The Crosses were among a capacity turnout that attended the clubs old fashioned stew and draught beer party on 1st month.

Harry Robello and Phyllis Spitz blow out the candles on their pink elephant adorned birthday cakes. Earl King, Panama Dave Baptiste, Jerry MacDonald, and Jimmy Hakuole glow their approval with an assortment of expressions.

AGE? 39, OF COURSE?

Birthdays of familiar faces along Waikiki seem to have two things in common—they all happen at the same time and everyone is the same age, "jus' 39."

Turkey Love, who is now an 'alii' with the Hawaiian Village Beach Staff, got the birthday ball rolling with his 'honest to goodness' 39th celebration.

Then came Chick Daniels, who is perhaps the "Jack Benny" of them all. Chick and a number of his beach pals honored his birthday in royal fashion.

Steamboat Mokuahi, the OCC Beach Service captain, tossed a party for his "Missus" on the beach. Mrs. Mokuahi, better known as "Sugar;" was piled to her eyes with leis by friends and relations. To round out the long list of birthdays so close together, Johnny McMahon honored recently returned Harry Robello and Phyllis Spitz with a splash at his Niuiki Place home.

Until next year (or next week) the Outrigger bids them the merriest of birthdays.
