FOOD AND SERVICE QUESTIONNAIRE

On December 10, a special Committee designated the FOOD AND BAR SERVICE COMMITTEE, composed of Ernest H. Thomas, chairman, Harriet Thomas, J. Ward Russell, Robert W. Patrick and H. M. Taylor (Coordinating Director) mailed to all regular members a comprehensive questionnaire concerning food and drink quality, service and furnishings.

It is the duty and endeavor of this Committee to suggest improvements, improve food, service and furnishings if the majority of members require such corrections. You can help this Committee immeasurably by returning your questionnaire honestly and thoughtfully filled in and with any further comments you may wish to add.

After a check is made on members' requirements the Committee will make recommendations to the Board of Directors for their action. Please send in your questionnaire NOW if you have failed to do so already.

CONVENIENT PARKING

Many OCC members do not realize how fortunate we are situated regarding parking.

Adjacent to the Club is the Moana Parking lot. Immediately across the street (entrance on Kuhio) is International Village parking lot and around the corner is Princess Kaiulani lot. All charge reasonable rates by the hour, day or month to OCC members.

Use any to park your car and make dining at the OCC a habit with no parking problems.

OCC OPEN WATER SWIM

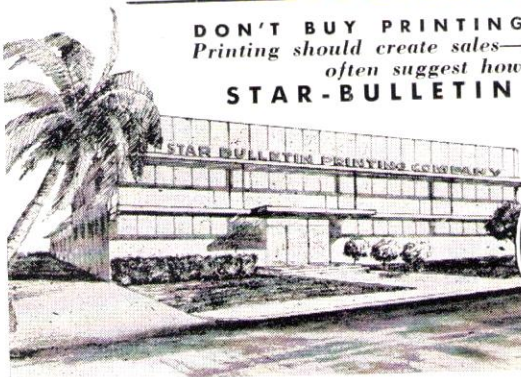

This event, announced in the December FORECAST, was called off after a check up with various swimming coaches due to a lack of interest. It is unfortunate that this swimming event which has been sponsored many years has died out, though the last several meets were outstanding successes and brought out record entries.

KAHANAMOKU SWIM

On New Year's Day, January 1, 1958, Open Water Swimming championships were held, honoring our own Duke P. Kahanamoku. The six events were sponsored by the Hawaiian Village Hotel, under the direction of Mary Ann Sears, aquatic director of the hotel swimming activities.

EDWIN N. MCCLELLAN

ALICE ROOSEVELT AT WAIKIKI

by EDWIN NORTH MCCLELLAN

Impetuous, tempestuous but charming Alice Lee Roosevelt, daughter of President Theodore Roosevelt and distant cousin of FDR and wife, made two visits to Waikiki. First, of one day in 1905; second, of five weeks in 1907 as Mrs. Nicholas Longworth. She liked Waikiki and saw the OCC sites of 1908 and 1963. I wonder what Alice Lee Roosevelt Longworth's thoughts in 1957 are of the Coral Curve of Waikiki.

The Manchuria steamed out of San Francisco Bay on July 8, 1905. "The Manchuria . . . a Congressional Ark with [William Howard] Taft as its Noah," recorded Henry F. Pringle, carried as passengers a large group of Republicans and Democrats, among them Alice Lee Roosevelt, daughter of President Theodore Roosevelt. The party was under the leadership of Secretary of War William Howard Taft. Also aboard the Manchuria were Representative Nicholas Longworth, about whom there was much speculation as to whether he was to wed Alice Roosevelt. Also, Senator and Mrs. Newlands, Representative Charles Curtis (part Indian, later Senator and Vice-President), Representative W. Bourke Cochran, Mabel Boardman, official photographer Burr MacIntosh, and many others. The Friend of August, 1905, reported there were 104 in the Taft Party, which would enjoy one day in Paradise.

"ENTHUSIASTIC . . . MISS ALICE"

The Manchuria was off Diamond Head early on the morning of July 14, 1905. "The visit of the Taft Party, brief as it was, had the time of their lives," reported Hawaiian Annual, 1906, "and not the least enthusiastic of whom was Miss Alice Roosevelt."

AWAKENED BY MUSIC OFF LEAHI

"The morning we reached Honolulu I was awakened by the plaintive singing voices and musical instruments of the natives who had come out to meet the steamer," wrote Alice Roosevelt in Crowded Hours. "I had never heard anything like it before and felt as if the Lotus Eaters themselves had come out to greet us."

LOVELY OAHU, WONDERFUL WAIKIKI

"My eyes were open and my head was out of the porthole simultaneously, to see the lovely mass of the Island of Oahu lying offside in the early dawn light, mountains and valleys in cloudy green . . . the white beach."

In Alice Roosevelt's vision was Diamond Head; at its foot the three-story residence of James B. Castle directly upon the sea, the water dashing against the stone foundation walls [this is the general site of OCC 1963 home]; she also saw the Moana Hotel, the Old Moana Pier, and the Royal Hawaiian Annex [late Seaside Hotel]; between them the Apuakehau Stream and Lagoon where the OCC later appeared May 1, 1908.

GARLANDED US WITH LEIS—"DAY OF HOSPITALITIES"

"We rushed through breakfast and landed for a day of hospitalities," wrote Alice. "The entire population seemed to be on the wharf to meet us and garlanded us with leis of heavy-perfumed flowers." The Royal Hawaiian Band played Aloha Oe and the thousands of assembled spectators expressed their fond aloha. There was an official welcome. A detachment of the Tenth Infantry rendered military honors.

"JACK" ATKINSON, ALOHA CHAIRMAN

"The entire party was taken charge of by a committee of which Acting Governor ["Jack" Alatau Leonard Charles] Atkinson was chairman," explained Alice. "Jack" Atkinson was Secretary of the Territory and in the absence of Governor Walter Francis Frear was the Acting Governor. He was a surfing enthusiast and was one of the Founders of the OCC.

"We first drove in a long procession of carriages to the Pali," continued Alice. "Next we raced back down the road to Honolulu to take a special train to see a sugar plantation and refinery."

HULA, "LESS JEUNE FILLE"

"A rather expurgated hula was provided for our entertainment" at the sugar plantation, lamented a disappointed Alice.

"Is it not possible to see a less jeune fille version?" she asked. "Yes," was the pleasing reply.

"So, with a few others, I left the general crowd and saw a dance that undoubtedly was much more like the real thing," explained Alice.

"Afterwards, a song was written . . . Alice Roosevelt, she came to Honolulu and she saw the Hula Hula Hula Hai, and, I think, before she reached the Filipinos, she could dance the Hula Hula Hula Hai."

"I could and did!" declared Alice.

LUNCHEON AT ROYAL HAWAIIAN

"We were given a luncheon at the Royal Hawaiian Hotel [downtown], rooms and lanai decorated with . . . tropical fruit and flowers," wrote Alice. "The Band, according to what was almost a habit of bands in those days, played Alice, Where Art Thou?" But the Band did not render Alice Blue Gown. After luncheon the Taft Party went out to the Moana Hotel at Waikiki Beach.

SURFING AT WAIKIKI

Alice Roosevelt, with many others, spent the afternoon at Waikiki, swimming and outriggering. Surfboarding was a challenge to Alice and, on a dare, she tried her luck on a surfboard.

"THE DUKE" WAS THERE

Alice Roosevelt did not notice a tallish well-proportioned Hawaiian youngster of almost fifteen years named Duke Paoa Kahanamoku. With some of the Surfing Gang he was there to look at the distinguished malihinis. Duke and the other many members of that Surfing Gang—including Dad and Mike Center, Ken Atkinson, Knute Cottrell, Zen Genoves, Dude Miller, Harry Steiner, Ken Brown, Lawrence Cunha and the Hustace brothers—were making it impossible for surfboarding and outriggering to become extinct on the Beach at Waikiki.

VOLLEYBALL SPOTLITE

VB AWARDS DINNER

Friday the 13th turned out to be a lucky day for the volleyball and baseball gang. The annual awards dinner, which was held on this date, turned out to be a smashing staggering success for all.

The volleyball and mountainball trophies and medals were awarded by the Club President, Fred Steere. The men's open doubles trophy went to Bill Cross and Pat Wyman. The Kane-Wahine four man first place medals went to Bob Clarke, Bill Baird, Ron G. Sorrell, May Borthwick, Pauline Cleveland and Gildia Downing. Trophies went also to the first place Wahines doubles champs, Billie Baird and Baby Cross. With the help of Anzai's Banzai, the Volleyball Committee has filed the December 13 awards dinner as a success.

VB COMMITTEE MEETING

The Volleyball Committee will hold a meeting on January 11 at 4:00 p.m. to discuss the tournament schedule for the year 1958. The meeting will be open to Club members who wish to attend. The Committee will probably vote the following tournaments: Men's open doubles, Wahines open doubles, Junior-Senior doubles, Kane-Wahines mixed four man and doubles and a six man volleyball tournament.

The Volleyball, Mountain Ball Awards Dinner was a shining success. What with awards, Anzai Banzai and buffet dinner—why not? In the group (L to R) are: "Whiskey" Barnhart, Mark Auerbach, Clarence Philpotts, Bobby Clarke, "Doc" Jim Beardmore, Bob Snider, Jim Hutchinson, Billy Baird, Melva Snider, Eva Hunter, Barbara Pratt, and (back to camera) Billie Baird, Pat Patterson (who slipped the C & H package into pic), all gathered around for a long, tall one. OPEN HOUSE

Christmas Day, between 4:00 and 5:30, brought out a full house to the OCC traditional Open House. Oldtimers, new members and guests enjoyed a pleasant few hours with eggnog and punch and other goodies combined with music, hulas and, of course, much Merry Christmas cheer and good fellowship.

FOR ANZAI

In the glossier bistros of Hollywood, stars, agents and assorted bons vivants are quaffing a drink picturesquely known as a Tequila Matador: it's made of tequila, pineapple juice and a squeeze of lime, agitated or served over ice. But note: faintly sweet, the Matador doesn't lend itself to all-evening drinking. Its popularity stems from the social imbibers.

• A CHAMPION'S CHAMPION—John David (Lukela) Kaupiko was born in South Kona on the Big Island of Hawaii in 1892. . . . When only two years old John was adopted by an Auntie—Mrs. Paul Kanoa, whose husband was then Governor of Kauai. . . . At an early age he was sent to Honolulu where he attended Royal School. . . . As many youngsters he became interested in the beach at Waikiki. First seeing it in 1909. In 1911 he began swimming with the old Hui Nalu Club which then was only ten years old. In 1913 along with Duke Kahanamoku, George Cunha, Fred Wilhelm, Oudie Holstein and others, the Hui Nalu Club was invited to San Francisco to participate in the Portola Week activities. In 1914 the crack Hui Nalu team competed again in San Francisco. The team returned to compete in 1915 Worlds Fair. . . . In 1921 John D. started the Beach Services at Waikiki. This was the first organized beach service on the beach. (In 1940 John sold the beach services to the Outrigger Canoe Club.) In 1922 he became head coach of the Hui Nalu Club, of which he is still the coach after 35 years. . . . John D. has more than two dozen trophies. He spends endless hours with his boys on the beach and in all canoeing racing they are always contenders. . . . John has one son John D., Jr.—who works for Johnston Buscher and is one of the four famed Lucky Lager Quartet. . . . John and wife Helen spend each Christmas and New Year's with Uncle George Lycurgus at the Volcano House. Uncle George each morning stands outside of John D.'s door making sure that he is up and ready for that first cribbage game of the day. John was cribbage champion of the Outrigger Canoe Club. . . . He is a member of the Kamehameha Lodge and Outrigger Canoe Club.

IF YOU CAN KEEP YOUR EYES OFF THE HIPS AND ON THE HANDS
THEN YOU'RE A KAMAAINA

When you start watching the hands, you're a real kamaaina. It does not matter who said it—it does point up the real meaning of the hula, which actually is a pantomime with the hands telling the story of a song or chant. The hips only keep the rhythm of the dance.

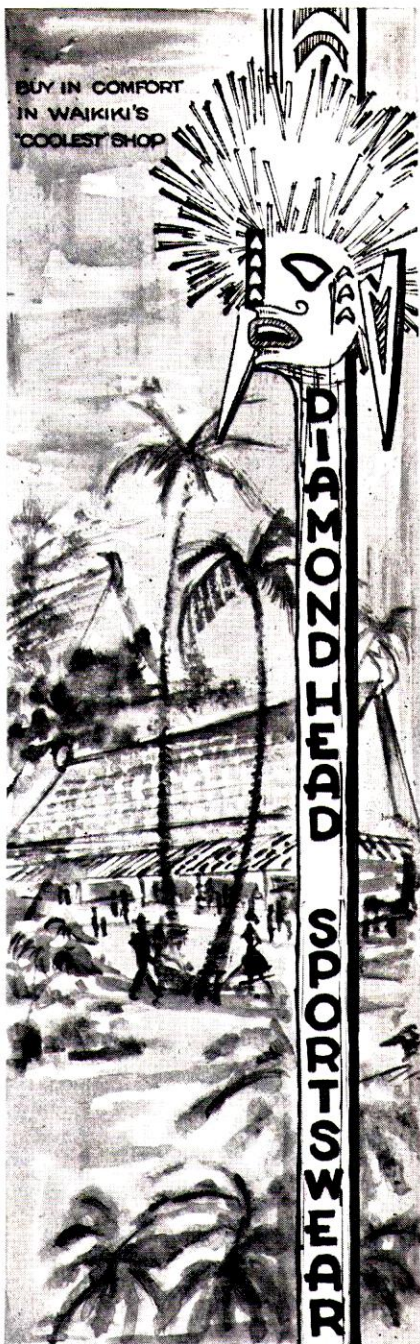

Origin of the hula dates back into misty Hawaiian legend. One version is that two gods, male and female, both named Laka, came to Hawaii to dance for the people. After a while the male disappeared and the woman remained to be worshipped and to teach the hula. Hiiaka, beautiful sister of the fire goddess Pele, was expert at the dance which she learned from Laka.

In ancient times, the hula was a religious function. Historically, only men danced the hula but as civilization became more complex men went to war and were involved in government, women took over. From religious beginnings, the hula gradually expanded into the opera of Hawaii. Meles (songs for the hula) touched almost every aspect of daily or historical life.

Still another innovation on the Island dance scene is the increasing Tahitian type of hula. A shimmy kind of hula, it is popular with visitors who seem to like the faster pace of the Tahitian dance along with the more stately, slower type of Hawaiian hula.

Performers were divided into two classes—the olapa (agile ones) and the ho'o-paa (steadfast ones). The younger men and women were assigned to the olapa while the ho'o-paa handled chants and heavier instruments. Costume for both sexes was the short skirt called the pa'u. However, the missionaries, shocked by the state of undress, hustled the dancers into cotton dresses and eventually middy blouses and full skirts. Then began the intense campaign to suppress the hula. So successful was this move that music-loving King Kalakaua in the 1800's had to send couriers to remote mountain villages to find Hawaiians who still knew the precious old chants and dances in his revival of the old hulas and meles.

KEIKI PARTY

The Keiki Christmas Party, which has become one of the traditional highlights of Club entertainment, was as usual a complete sellout. Held on Friday evening, December 20, ostensibly for the really little keikis, it is our opinion that the older—mothers, fathers, uncles, aunts, cousins, tutus and pupus—get a bigger bang out of it than the young fry.

Dinner at 7:00, followed by the arrival of Kris Kringle with presents for all the wide-eyed kiddies. Songs, music and entertainment and then home for a sleepless night for the tiny tots. Better plan to make your reservations real early for the 1958 Keiki Christmas Party.

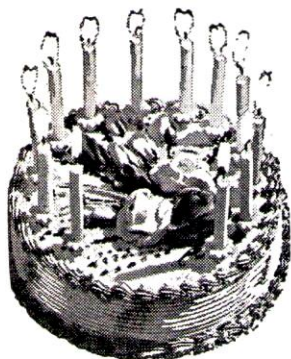

"Junior Note"

Christmas vacation saw an influx of junior members home for the holidays from colleges and schools on the mainland. Any sunny day brought out its bevy of girls and boys to gossip, play volleyball, swim and otherwise enjoy the benefits of the Club. Below are a few whom we saw about the Club. By the time this issue reaches you most of them will be again busy with their studies until the summer vacation.

MANNING RICHARDS • WILFORD GODBOLD, JR.

Condolences

To the family of the late Glenn V. Stewart goes our deepest sympathy on his death. "Bill," as we called him, was a lover of the beach, the sun and the water and took great pleasure there regularly. Always a friendly smile, a cheerful word for everyone and time to take part in civic activities, we will miss Bill.

Hauoli La Hanau Aloha Nui Loa

KEEP EYES ON HANDS

Today's hula is considerably different from the old days of rhythm instruments and chants. The ukulele, guitar and steel guitar have inspired a "hapa haole" type of hula to such songs as "Lovely Hula Hands" and "Hukilau," by dancers clad in sarongs and flowing holokus. However, there seems a trend back to the percussion instruments such as gourds, bamboo and even stones.

Where's Erma? they ask. Like the bears, she has sort of gone into a long winter sleep. However, trust Erma, something will happen and her hibernation will end—startlingly, no doubt.

Red McQueen, who was awarded "Best in Sportswriters" awards, has had a round of parties, dinners and receptions given in his honor. Even the redoubtable and indestructible Red had to holler "uncle." He and his war department left for L.A. for the big dinner and award on December 30.

Duke did it again. He was elected Vice-Commodore of the Emerald Bay Yacht Club of California aboard the yacht Araner, movie director John Ford's little super duper yacht, in Kewalo Basin, December 21.

VERSESIDE

Charles F. Wilson has been playing around with the language again and some of its foibles he gives us today in italics:

*A man says, "No, it's nothing gnu—
My wife goes out with Bill to coup."
The lawyer says, "Yes, you can Sioux.
But punch his nose you no can doux."*

ALICE ROOSEVELT

my bathing-suit," explained Alice. "It was considered just a little indelicate . . . that they might be taken and published. And a bathing-suit was a silk or mohair dress not at all short, high-necked and with sleeves and, of course, long black stocking." Several years later in Crowded Hours, Ethel Roosevelt published a photograph of herself in that tabu black (not Alice Blue) bathing-suit at Waikiki Beach. In it her feet were protected from coral and masculine gaze with white shoes.

"I DID NOT WANT TO LEAVE"

"We stayed on the Beach at Waikiki until it was time to go back to the steamer," explained Alice. "I did not want to leave."

"The Manchuria sails at five o'clock," announced someone. "We'd better hurry." The advice was heeded but not soon enough.

"I missed the ship at the wharf, as it had to sail at a definite time because of the tides," wrote Alice. A launch was secured.

"SURFING IS GLORIOUS"

At the Pier, Alice told an Advertiser man—"The surfing is glorious. I never imagined that one could enjoy anything as much as I have enjoyed this day in Honolulu" (Advertiser, July 15, 1905).

"ALOHA NUI LOA"

As she departed the Royal Hawaiian Band played Goodbye, Little Girl, Goodbye, reported the Paradise of the Pacific. Alice shouted back—"Aloha Nui Loa!" She knew her Hawaiian.

"In a launch, with Nick [Longworth], Senator and Mrs. Newlands, and a few others, leis about our necks, regret in our hearts at leaving, I pursued the Manchuria out into the Pacific," wrote Alice Lee Roosevelt. Of her 1907 visit to Waikiki—later I hope.
