JACK LONDON AT WAIKIKI

By Edwin North McClellan

The Snark, carrying Jack and Charmion London, anchored in Pearl Harbor—Jack London's Dream Harbor—in May of 1907. After living a period in a cozy shack on the Peninsula they set up living quarters in a "Brown-Tent Cottage" just about where the Outrigger Canoe Club is now located. It was about May 31st, explained Charmion London, that we started to live in this "tent-household." A well-known date-palm served as a corner of the Brown-Tent.

The Brown-Tent Cottage on Outrigger Site

This Brown-Tent of the Londons was situated near the Seaside Hotel (managed by Fred Church, an old Yukon friend of Jack). "To the south we were separated from the Moana Hotel by a sand-banked stream from the mountains," described Charmion London. After a period of enjoyment on the Beach at Waikiki, the Londons returned for a spell to Pearl Lochs, Jack's Dream-Harbor. Then, about June 25, 1907, Charmion London wrote that they were "once more in the Brown-Tent Cottage" at Waikiki. The Londons raved over Waikiki, the surf and the native Hawaiians. They preferred the Polynesians to the haoles. And, among the many amphibious lads they enjoyed watching (and becoming friends of) was the Bronze Duke of Waikiki—Duke Paoa Kahanamoku. The Snark sailed for the Island of Hawaii and Christmas Island in mid-August, 1907. When I made my first visit to Waikiki in July, 1908, I heard much about Jack London.

The Londons came back to Hawaii aboard the Matsonia in March of 1915. A short time later they took a "cottage on Beach Walk, a newly-opened residence street not far from the Seaside Hotel," said Charmion. We "walked down Kalia Road to the old Seaside Hotel and were on Waikiki sands."

The Jack London Date Palm

"In place of those weatherbeaten house and the Brown-Tent we lived in back 1907, the Outrigger Canoe Club has established its bathhouses, separate Club lanais for women and men and, nearest the water, a large raised dancing-lanai, underneath which reposed a fleet of great canoes," continued Charmion London. The "only land-mark we recognized was the Jack London Date Palm where had once been a corner of our Brown Tent-House." And, in the shadow of that Palm, explained Charmion, "Jack wove his first tales of Hawaii." "There is talk of erecting a Memorial Drinking Fountain at the (C) that marks the site of our Brown-Tent Cottage," concluded Mrs. London. Maybe, it would be a fine thing if (in 1950) we carried out that idea of 1915 and erected a Jack London Memorial Drinking Fountain on the Outrigger Club Grounds.

That summer of 1915 was a happy one for the Londons. Some of the time was spent in the company of Duke Paoa Kahanamoku — Olympic Swimming Champion. Charmion wrote—"Under the high lanai of the Outrigger Canoe Club, we lay in the cool sand between the canoes and read aloud, napped and talked or visited with the delightful inhabitants of the strand, until ready to swim in the late afternoon." One "special diversion was to watch several Hawai- (F) youths, the unsurpassed Duke Kahanamoku among them, performing athletic stunts in water and out." The Londons returned to California in July of 1915 but came back to Waikiki aboard the Great Northern in December of the same year.

We "went right into a delightful house, 2201 Kalia Road, around the corner from our former cottage on Beach Walk," wrote Charmion London. "Our place at Waikiki, adjoining the grounds of the quiet Hau Tree Hotel of old, now the Halekulani, had once been the property of the Castles and later the Wilders." Charmion London wrote of many things, including Carnival Week in February of 1916 "where Duke Kahanamoku added more emblems to his shield than he lost." Jack and Charmion enjoyed many wonderful events at the Outrigger Canoe Club, including the great International Banquet of May 5, 1915. They were hosts at a luau under their "own roof and hau tree" to Jack's many Hawaiian friends, on July 25, 1916 and sailed away the following day.

COLONEL McCLELLAN IN KOREA

Our good friend, Colonel Edwin North McClellan, who has authored so many historical stories for us, is at present somewhere in the Far East. We have had a number of letters from him saying that he is with our Navy getting first hand information of Korea, Japan and the far flung fronts. Letters received from him have been very interesting covering some of his experiences in Korea and aboard ship and he has asked that his best wishes be given to Ted, Duke, Dad, Fred Cordes, the Admiral, Sam, Bill, George, and all of his other good friends.

CHRISTMAS DAY—1950
24 December 1950

ON A CARRIER IN SEA OF JAPAN
Dear Ernie, Nell and Family and all Friends:

Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year to you all—which you will read many days after those two Holidays. Yesterday, the last American Marines and Soldiers were evacuated from HUNGHAN a port in North Korea. The Navy planes and Navy ships supported the evacuation. It is not too cold up here and the sea usually calm. We have every convenience aboard this ship but I am getting very lonesome and will soon start to continue my itinerary. I hope to visit one port in Korea, and Yokohama and Tokyo. What I do after that is somewhat indefinite though I am hoping to visit spots farther south in the Far East. We will have Christmas Dinner at 6:00 p.m. this evening in the Ward-Room—half an hour from now.

Much LOVE to all of you,
Edwin North McClellan (Mac)

SPINNING THE DISCS

With Pat Mulholland

This month I intend to discuss one aspect of this business of collecting phonograph records that will particularly interest those of you who have recently invested in either a new 3 speed changer or a new radio-phonograph combination. The question you probably have in mind is this: How should I go about collecting records? What kind should I buy?

Now there are a number of books on the market that give you a streamlined selection. It's all cut and dried. They tell you how many symphonies you should have, what kind of operas you should select, and so on, ad infinitum nauseam. They take it for granted that what you're trying to do is build up a collection that will impress your neighbors and not something that you can live with. It's just as silly and incomprehensible as trying to tell you what sort of girl you should marry or what kind of ties you should drape around your neck.

CHOOSE WHAT YOU ENJOY

Sometime ago a friend of a celebrated novelist decided she was going to educate the poor writer into a love for good music. She knew that this celebrated woman cared less for classical music than she did for the dirt on her feet but she was going to teach her, or else. So she took her to a symphony concert and at the conclusion thereof she asked: "Well, Kathleen, what did you think of it?" The novelist shook her head sadly: "It all simfunny to me," was her answer.

Then there was the friend of mine who took me to breakfast one day. He was fat and fifty and had a sparkle in his eye that I wish mine could have. This is what he had for breakfast: An over-size waffle. On top of this he had a thick coating of fresh, large strawberries. On top of this he had a coating of crisp bacon. Over this he had a coating of whipped cream that looked to be an inch thick. On top of this he had a scoop of ice cream with a cherry. "Don't you think it's wonderful?" he asked. I agreed it was wonderful; for him. Now that sort of gastronomic extravaganza might have been just perfect for his particular physical set up but my gastrointestinal region and affiliated organs would have staged a major revolution if it had something like that to cope with.

These two stories point up one fact: that in collecting records you should follow the same principles and guides that you follow in choosing other things in your life. Pick what you can live with; choose what you enjoy. Don't buy something that the other fellow buys because he likes it. Don't be hurt when somebody suggests what you should have. He doesn't have to live with it; you do.

In twenty-five years of record collecting I haven't allowed anyone to dictate my selections. I've bought what I wanted, what I felt would give me pleasure. After all, it's my own hard-earned (?) money. Why shouldn't I spend it as I please? Why should I buy operas if I detest the darned things just because Joe Blow across the street loves them to distraction? Why should I buy jazz records if the girl across the street won't go out with me unless I stock up on a few hundred crazy pieces? Pieces that I don't like?

WILL GIVE ADVICE

I don't need to point out what you should buy in the way of records. You have an idea of what sort of music you like. You know what radio station (W) tune in on. You already know the stations you take to normally. Just do with this business of buying records what you do when you turn on a radio station, and you won't have any trouble.

If, however, you do feel that you'd like some advice on record collecting, I'd be more than pleased to give any member of the Outrigger Canoe Club the benefit of my twenty-five years of experience any time he wants it. I'd be glad to show him my collection, to play for him any piece he desires but I warn him ahead of time that my selections are highly unorthodox. I love hillbilly music, I am infatuated with Hawaiian records, my little pink toenails curl up

OCC SWIMMING STAR APPROACHES WORLD RECORD

Our own member, Dick Cleveland, 21 year old Freshman at Ohio State, came within 1 10 of a second of the world's 100 yard free style record Saturday, January 20th. His time was 49 and 8 10 seconds. Alan Ford of Yale holds the record in 49 and 7 10 seconds. His swim coach, Mike Peppe, believes that Dick will soon crack the world's record as he is now but a Freshman. Cleveland is the first swimmer to do the 100 yards under 50 seconds since Ford made his world record in 1911.

1 of his friends at the Outrigger Canoe Club as well as throughout Hawaii are proud of him and wish him a most sincere Aloha!

WITH A. PETITPOIS
Maitre de Cuisine

Dr. K. C. Leebrick says that Albert Savage, Chef at Durgin-Park Restaurant in Boston, is probably the world's leading specialist in Yankee cookery. He himself is an old Yankee who was born in Lithuania. He has one assistant who is a Bulgarian Yankee and another who is a Polish Yankee.

"The chief difference between Yankee cooking and most other kinds of cooking is that we make our food taste like what it's supposed to be," says Albert. "In other kinds of cooking chefs seem determined to make the food taste like something else."

Albert prepares vast quantities of the traditional baked Indian Pudding. In the course of a year, if you're fond of statistics, he makes enough to float the Lurline, the President Cleveland, and a small Outrigger Canoe. The following recipe is sufficient to make one-half gallon:

BAKED INDIAN PUDDING

- 1 cup granulated cornmeal
- ½ cup black molasses
- ¼ cup granulated sugar
- ¼ cup of lard or butter
- ¼ teaspoon baking soda
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- 2 eggs 1½ quarts hot milk

Mix all the ingredients thoroughly with one half (¾ quart) of the hot milk and bake in a very hot oven until it boils. Then stir in the remaining half (¾ quart) of hot milk and bake in a slow oven for five to seven hours. Bake in stone crock, well greased inside.

The fame of Durgin-Park Indian pudding is world-wide. Long before Durgin-Park the pudding made according to this recipe was taken to sea by clipper ship captains. It was made by cooks in ships' galleys from Valparaiso to Hongkong.

The secret of its excellence lies in its slow and careful cooking. Not long ago a couple of lads came up with the bright idea of canning the pudding. They got in touch with Albert, explaining that they had made up some batches they wanted him to sample.

"I asked them how much cooking time they gave the pudding," he says. "When they told me 30 minutes, I lost interest."

VOLLEYBALL HILITES

OPEN SIX TOURNAMENT

About fifty men have signed up for this Tournament which will start about February 5th and last through March. Closing sign up was Sunday January the 28th. The play will be a round robin, played each Sunday morning probably starting at 9:00 a.m.-10 a.m. or possibly later. Announcements of teams, captains, starting times and schedule will be posted. Watch the Bulletin Board.

WAHINE-KANE VB COMING

Too early to announce this Tournament—but it's coming. Probably will start shortly after the Open Six. Good idea you Wahines and Kanes begin teaming up now and get a little practice.

DAILY BIG GAMES

The big games—open, have caught on again and daily at 4:30 a goodly group can be seen on the makai court battling it out. These games prove nothing (but) you'd think that each one was for the championship. Young and old, fat and thin, short and tall, good players and some not so good get out there and battle their hearts—and lungs too, out. Some way or another the teams seem to even up as to quality and always as to quantity. It's fun to watch but more to play. Oldtimers are invited to barge in—observing of course the amenities.

OPEN DOUBLES RESULTS

The blue ribbon event, the Open Doubles Tournament is pau. The finals played on Sunday Jan. 21st went the full three games with Bob Dolan and Dr. Jim Beardmore winning and now Champs. They will be awarded gold medals.

The runners up were Bill Cook and Lawrence "Jack" Ackerman in second place. All games throughout the Tournament were hotly contested, well refereed and brought out fine sportsmanship. Third place winners were Gilbert Brightman and Pat O'Connor. The play of this duo showed remarkable improvement and they will be a team to watch in the future. Experience gained in this round should be invaluable to them in tournaments to come.

STILL MORE NICKNAMES

From many sources particularly "Sally" Hale, "The Admiral" and Sam Poepoe come more contributions to the colorful nicknames of Waikiki. The names are here, the origin is in some cases lost or doubtful. At least they are original and in many cases tell their own story. Here they are. Can you add to them?

Gene "Tarzan" Smith, well-known on the beach, over six feet tall with a physique like Tarzan—he was the man who surfed from Molo-kai to Oahu. "Mighty" Ah Kong Pang—mighty on account of his muscular build and strength built up by weight lifting and mighty too because of his long years of serving in aquatic meets. "Scooter boy" other names unknown and Charles "Panama Dave" Baptiste. Some day we'll tell you why the nickname.

"Colgate" Kaluhiokalani's story we told—but not his last name. Then there was "Hawkshaw" Howell and Hiram "Baffles" Anahu, Jimmy "Aku" Hakuole, probably because of his name pronunciation. William "Pappy Chick" Daniels for many years and still a figure on the beach. Why the "Chick," Chick? And who was "Black-out"?

There were two Makuas—Baldwin "Blue Boy" and John "Boss" and where is "Tough Bill" Keaweamaki? Harry "Curly" Cornwell is obvious wahines—you should see those permanent waves. John "Laughing John" Kauo is well named—always smiling or laughing. Nat "hand me down" Norfleet once was in the men's suit business—can this be the reason? Kepoikai "Splash" Lyons, maker of sweet music, is short and wide and probably does make a splash in any ocean. Alan "Turkey Egg" Love, Fred "Kamehameha" Cordes, "Scowie" Hartman, "Jinky" Crozier, Joe "Scoop" Akana and "Wee Willie" Whittle all have tales connected with their names.

Bill "Tarball" Kahanamoku and Sargent "Dogpatch" Kahanamoku, Ann "Uku" Brown, John "Mad driver" Russell, Malcolm "Shark-bait" Maguire are more whose nicknames in some cases are obvious.

Then there are two "Steamboats" Bill and Sam Mokuahi, Ah Kin "East Side" Yee, "Termite" last name unknown, and John "Mon-goose" Crites. The Club help has several candidates—"Tako Boss" Takafuji, handy man, "Jim Box" Kaya, carpenter, and "Admiral Nimitz" Delcano, waiter.

"Squeakie" Bill Prange because during adolescence his voice did just that and "Squeakie" Marieschen Wehselau who squeaked when excited. There is Charles "Soupy" Coelho, Wally "Fish Drunk" Young, "Brown Betty" Drummond and "Weeps" Jennings Parker. "Squeeze" Kama-na, Jack "Chico kid" Briscoe, "Niele" Bush, Chas. "Chief" Amalu, Warren "Bull" Haines are a few more.

John "Yoyo" Ernstberg and "Bear" Adams were Life Guards. A few more colorful figures are Andy "Cowboy" Bright, Charley "One Round" Hogan, "Slippery" Cunningham, "Mouse" Smith and "Westy" Mark Westgate. Who was "Okebreath"?

Future historians may add many nicknames and delve into the origins; we present the list.

That man underneath is Joe Rose—welcoming Carmen Miranda—hmmm. Joe says, "This beats sportscasting, disc jockeying, and scouting for the New York Yankees or Minneapolis Lakers."

"WELCOME TO THE BEACH, BILL"

As much a part of Waikiki Beach as the Outrigger Canoe Club is Hawaii Visitors Bureau. While the members of the Club regret the loss of Mark Egan, who has been doing such a fine job, we also congratulate him on his fine connection as Advertising and Sales Promotion Manager of the Congoleum-Nairn, Inc.

The Club also wishes to welcome William O. Cogswell as his successor as executive secretary. "Bill" is eminently fitted for this job. He has had a long record of experience and achievement in advertising promotion and publicity. To know "Bill" is to like "Bill." We predict he will do an outstanding job for the Bureau and for the territory.

The Outrigger Canoe Club extends its Aloha and welcome to him and hopes that he will call upon the Club whenever it can further the interests of our many visitors.

Dear Mr. Magill:

One of the pleasures of the month is the "Forecast" which you so graciously send us every month. It seems to bring in its pages some of the sunshine with which you are so abundantly blessed, and our full share of which we some times fail to receive.

Would you care to give a little breakdown on your "Forecast" operation, Printing, Engraving, Space Rates, and etc. and percentage of profit, if any?

We have temporarily suspended publication of our "Gentlemen of the Press." The cost of publication was terrific so we shall have to change the format and develop something that will carry itself at least.

I am enclosing a copy of the program used at the recent Club Manager's Convention, which was produced by the local chapter. Hope you like it.

Outrigger Canoe Club

Dear Mr. Magill:

Our member, Mr. Arthur C. Smith, requested an Introductory Card to your Club and the request was not received in time to issue the card before his departure.

In the event he should come to the Outrigger Canoe Club, we would appreciate your extending the courtesies of your Club to him. Enclosed you will find our Introductory Card.

We have had such wonderful reports from our members who have visited the Outrigger Canoe Club as to your excellent food, service, and atmosphere and it is a pleasure to extend cards to those visiting the islands.

With best wishes for a very happy New Year,

Cordially,

ANN ABBEY, Membership
CLUB DEL MAR

Yours is a beautiful Club at Santa Monica and our traveling members should take advantage of the reciprocal arrangements. It was a pleasure to have Mr. Smith and we hope many of your members avail themselves of our Hawaiian hospitality.—The Editor.

with pleasure at hearing Caruso and symphonies. Something like "There'll be a hot time in the old town tonight" gives me an unholy sort of ecstasy. And have you heard Eddie Cantor's "Automobile Horn Song" and Dolores Del Rio singing "Ramona"? Or, Schuman Heink and Caruso singing "Home to Our Mountains," or John McCormack singing "Ave Maria" accompanied by Fritz Kreisler on the violin? That's the sort of pleasure 25 years of record collecting gives to a person. And that's the sort of pleasure I'd like to transmit to any member of the club who likes to hear some of the artists and songs he only reads about these days.

And so, when you go down to the music store, pick out what you like and what you know you can live with and what you really take pleasure in listening to. Don't let any other principle guide your selections. And if you do you will have many rewarding evenings ahead of you. Good luck, and happy listening.

OUR WELCOME GUESTS

The month of January saw no decline in the many guests who visited us from the states and from foreign countries. It is interesting to note that we had many visitors from our affiliated clubs, representatives from 13 of them having visited us in January. It is always a pleasure to meet these many fine people and feel that we have had a small part in making their stay pleasant to them, and to them we give our deepest Aloha with the hope that they will return again and again.
