The Good Old Carefree Days at the OCC

By Barbara Dorsam Del Piano

On the first day of my junior year at Roosevelt High School, our English composition teacher gave out the first assignment: write an essay on what you did during summer vacation. "Duck soup," I thought. The past three months, filled with sun and fun, had flown by and I could hardly believe it was September and school was already beginning. That evening I sat down at the old family Underwood and proceeded to write my composition. "The very first day of my vacation," I wrote with confidence, "I went to the Outrigger Canoe Club and during the day went swimming, surfing, and paddling. Later, I played volleyball and then just lay on the beach, working on a tan. The next day, I..." And then I realized that just about every day of the entire summer had been spent pretty much the same way. It took a lot of descriptive phrasing and minute details to fill up the required two pages.

Carefree Summers

Although World War II was raging, summers and weekends at the Club were carefree and filled with physical activity despite the barbed wire fences that stretched across the shore line and the gas masks we were supposed to have nearby at all times. The initial war scare was over and life went on, shortages and all.

It's hard to imagine life without the Outrigger, the gathering place where monumental decisions were often made . . . like what to wear to the party on Saturday night . . . or what color bathing suit to buy next.

Of course, this all took place at the "old Club", in the heart of Waikiki, where the Outrigger Hotel now stands. It was the third structure on the site since the Outrigger's founding in 1908. Actually, I remember the second Clubhouse, a long, dreary dark green building, because, at a fairly young age, I was often invited to the Club on weekends by my neighborhood friend, whose father was a member.

I remember Webley Edwards and the Hawai'i Calls radio program being broadcast in front of the Club. Web had a microphone with a very long cord and he would stroll along the beach and interview people. The waves rolling up on the shore made wonderful background music and he always put a thermometer in the water and announced the results to all those shivering people on the mainland. Eventually, the show moved to the Moana Hotel.

A favorite pastime back in the thirties was collecting autographs of the famous movie stars who frequented the Royal Hawaiian Hotel. Spencer Tracy, Rochelle Hudson, Bing Crosby, Claudette Colbert, Shirley Temple, Loretta Young are some that come to mind.

Joining the OCC

I didn't become a member of the Club until much later. When I had outgrown my welcome as a guest and the grim visage of the Club Manager Henry De Gorog began to appear in my dreams, I asked my parents if I could join.

They were not at all in favor of it because my father was an Elk and my mother a member of the Uluniu Women's Swimming Club. So really, they reasoned, what more did I need? Oh, how to explain that I wanted to be where the action was . . . not in a stodgy old ladies club, or heaven forbid, way out there at the far, far end of nowhere.

Eventually, after giving up a summer to work, I saved my money and paid my own initiation fee, which was $25, I think. I really scrimped on my allowance to keep up with the dues, a few dollars a month.

Remembering the Clubhouse

By then, the new Clubhouse had been built, and it was a vast improvement over the previous building.

One entered from Kalakaua Avenue, through an arcade of shops, into the lobby. Auntie Eva Pomroy was the receptionist and everyone loved her dearly. She was sort of our surrogate mother.

Behind her desk was the ladies and junior girls' locker rooms. Straight ahead were wide doors which opened onto a lanai lined with chairs, overlooking a large grassy area on one side and volleyball courts on the other. A walkway down the middle separated the two.

There were, I think, two large courts and one small one. On the Ewa side, behind the small court, was the entrance to the men's locker room. The Snack Bar was on the Diamond Head side. For many years, an outrageously funny fellow named Richard worked there. He was a nightclub performer in the evenings and scandalized us with stories of his risqué act.

Beyond the lawn and volleyball courts was a long building with canoe storage below and a Dining Room above. Two sides of the Dining Room were covered but the center part was open. On the other side of the building was the Hau Terrace, with stairs leading up to a very nice cocktail lounge. I remember spending my 18th birthday there, just waiting for the feared liquor inspector, Willie Whittle, to make an appearance.

Sometimes, when we tired of the Snack Bar menu, we had lunch in the Dining Room. Our favorite meal was a turkey sandwich or simply two scoops rice with gravy.

Bathing Suits

On the beach side of the Club was a small structure from which Sally Hale provided beach services and sold Club bathing suits. In those days, no one would be caught dead wearing anything other than an Outrigger bathing suit.

They were two-piece suits made of heavy cotton, fully lined. They came in white, red, light and royal blue. The first ones I remember had trunks that buttoned up both sides, "sailamoku" style. The tops tied around the neck and back. Later, a snazzier design became available. The trunks had a side zipper and the tops had horizontal pleats and narrow straps, and buttoned in the back. I still have one.

'Sunshine' & Parking

The parking lot was next door where the Ewa wing of the Moana-Surfrider Hotel is now. For awhile, we also had another lot across the street for additional parking.

A wonderful Hawaiian man named "Sunshine" was the parking attendant. He always wore a small lauhala hat and was a wizard on the ukulele, which was like an extra appendage because he was never without it. We often spent hours in the parking lot while Sunshine entertained us. I once heard that Sunshine appeared one day at the home of one of Auntie Eva's relatives in Kapahulu. They hired him to mow the lawn. When they found that he had no place to live, they offered him a room in the back of the garage. He stayed there for many years, became part of the family, and Auntie Eva got him the job as parking attendant.

Volleyball, Surfing

It was in the small court that we played volleyball most of the time. To make the games more interesting, we often enticed the younger boys, who were good players, to play doubles with us. They condescended to do so while waiting to use the large courts. Tommy Haine, Peter Balding, the Auerback brothers, Mark and Hank, Johnny "Mongoose" Crites are a few that I remember. I never was a very good player, but I was on an Outrigger team for awhile. We practiced at night at the Waikiki Fire Station and "small" Jack Ackerman was our coach.

When we weren't playing volleyball or surfing, we often sat on the lawn and played cards. Kamau was our favorite game and it kept us occupied for hours.

In the late afternoon it was fun to watch the businessmen arrive in suits and ties, then reappear shortly in bathing trunks and take over the large courts. There were some very large men among them, like Bill Mullahey, Ernest Stenberg, Sam Fuller, R. Q. Smith, Wilford Godbold, and Duke Kahanamoku, to name a few.

Surfing was a very important part of life at the Club. There was usually a long, hollow board available to borrow, and I remember being very proud when I mastered the feat of sliding it out of the locker, balancing it on my shoulder, and carrying it down to the beach.

I wasn't a very good surfer, but I loved to go out to "Canoes" and spend hours in the water, waiting for just the right wave. I loved sitting out there, straddling the board, and looking at the magnificent, unobstructed view of the Ko'olau mountains behind Manoa Valley.

One day when I was out in the surf daydreaming, I noticed everyone around me paddling madly for shore and heard someone yelling. I looked around and there, right beside me, was an enormous stingray. Needless to say, I paddled in as fast as I could.

Kau Kau Favorites

Often we would go to the Saturday matinee at the Waikiki Theater, practically across the street. They were very strict in that everyone was required to wear shoes. Many times we would scrounge up a pair and someone would buy a ticket, enter the theater, walk down the side aisle and toss the shoes out the door to the next person. Some times four or five of us would get into the movie with the same pair of shoes. For some reason, we always sat in the front row.

Occasionally we would get hungry for Hawaiian food and walk up Kalakaua to Unique Lunch Room, a marvelous hole-in-the-wall restaurant opposite where Kuhio Beach is now. I remember sitting at the counter and devouring bowls of poi and pipikaula, the best I've ever had.

OCC Entertainment

The Outrigger became even more important after going away to college. Coming back after a homesick year on the cold, cold, mainland, getting down to the Club and back together with old friends was truly exciting. Of course, we were all pale and embarrassed to be seen in bathing suits, but within a few days we had re-acquired our tans and it was like we'd never been away.

One summer when I returned from school, everyone was talking about a Hawaiian music group that performed on the Hau Terrace every Friday night. Andy Cummings' great hit, "Kaimana Hila" was sweeping the Islands.

Andy, Gabby Pahinui, Joe Diamond and Ralph Alapa'i made such wonderful music that we couldn't get enough of them. Often we'd pool our money and go to Felix's Florentine Garden on Ala Moana where the group performed on Saturday night, or out to Kaneohe to a wonderful place called Kilohana Gardens where they were the major attraction on Sunday afternoon.

Of course, most of the world famous Royal Hawaiian Hotel beach boys belonged to the Outrigger. We loved to watch them holding court on the beach entertaining the wealthy tourists who absolutely idolized them and were totally entranced with their inimitable brand of ho'omalimali. The ones I remember best are Chick Daniels, Turkey Love, Blue Makua, Panama, Kalakaua and Harry Robello.

Kamehameha Day and the Fourth of July were big days at the Club for canoe racing. I think it was on Kamehameha Day that a platform would be built and someone would be ensconced on a throne wearing a pseudo-feather cape and helmet. The platform was surrounded by the prizes for the day's events . . . stalks of banana, baskets of papaya and coconut, and even a live pig.

When Walter Macfarlane died, the Club renamed the Fourth of July races after him, and Matson Navigation Company donated the beautiful silver bowl that to this day is filled with champagne for the winning crew to indulge in.

Happy to be Members

In those days, women were not allowed to serve on committees or be a member of the Board of Directors. We took it for granted and were just happy to be members. It happened that I was at the Club on two occasions when extraordinary events occurred. We were hanging out one day on the lawn when into the Club walked a young woman wearing a bikini. It was the first time any of us had ever seen one and I must admit we were all a bit startled.

Fascinated, we giggled as she strolled down the walkway before our very eyes. I don't remember whether she was a member or a guest, but she was very quietly asked to leave. For weeks after, the incident was the talk of the Club.

After the war was over and we moved into the '50s, our "old gang" drifted apart. Many of us married and began to raise families, leaving little leisure time; some moved away. Others embarked on careers that brought new interests and different pastimes.

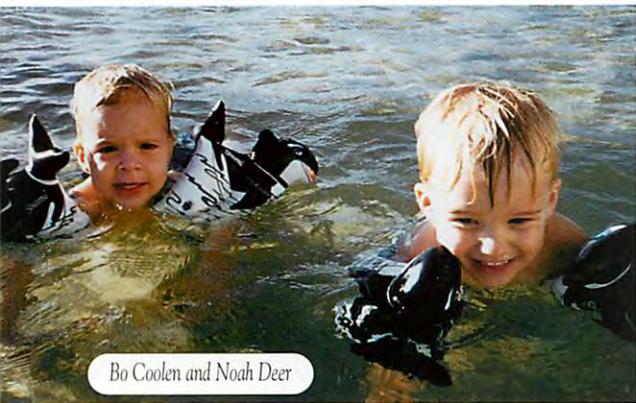

After years as a Nonresident member, I finally made the heart-rending decision to resign. Fortunately, the Club adopted a reinstatement policy so that eventually I was able to regain my membership.

By then, there had been monumental changes at the Outrigger. The race and gender barriers had been hurdled and the move to the Elks Club site completed. How my father would have laughed had he lived to see that! ☺

Members lazed on the OCC lawn opposite the volleyball courts on long summer days.

As the Terrace Turns

Bo Coolen and Noah Deer

Family and friends gathered on November 29 to celebrate Howard Weiner's 70th birthday at a gala dinner hosted by wife, Ferne. Kenneth Weiner, their eldest child, was also celebrating his 48th birthday. More than 50 friends and relatives attended, with the children and grandchildren coming from San Diego to share in this joyous event.

Liz and her Dining Room staff provided outstanding decor and impeccable service. Drinks and pupus were followed by a delicious dinner. The Chef surpassed himself with a sumptuous repast featuring salmon in papiotte and Baked Alaska. The festive atmosphere was enhanced by music, flowers and masses of balloons.

On November 30, Ray and Vicki Sukanuma celebrated the first birthday of their daughter, Pono Rachel. Thirty-five family and friends enjoyed brunch in the Duke Room.

Outrigger's singing sensations, Stefanie Smart and Devon Guard, will be performing this month in the Diamond Head Theatre's production of Nine. Nine won a Tony Award for Best Musical on Broadway in 1982. The show runs from February 6-20. Mention OCC when you're buying your tickets and you'll get a $5 discount on certain seats.

Congratulations to Kelly Scott, who along with his band E&S Country Hawaiian Music, was selected for the 1997 Home Grown Album. Kelly wrote the music and lyrics for "In the County", his tribute to fond memories of time spent on the North Shore. The Star Bulletin reports the band sounds like classic Kalapana, a sound which hasn't been heard around for nearly 20 years, says Carole Scott.

Bo Coolen celebrated his 2nd birthday at an OCC beach party. Great OCC food and cake were all in order. Helping him celebrate were Noah and Lilly Belle Deer, Allie Whiting, Karl Heyer V and Kelley Heyer, Kiley, Easton and Pierce Watumull, Alison and Christopher Nichols and Demi Coolen.

A few days after the ski slopes opened for business, Ron Sorrell was tearing up the slopes in Utah with Dave Hendrickson.

Congratulations to James Krueger. He had the third fastest time in the world in his masters 55-59 age group in the 50-meter freestyle in 1996. His time was :27.93 and recorded in the FINA

Lori Fagothy and Melvin Culp were wed recently.

Ray Galas visited the Capitol Hill Club in Washington, D.C. with Mary Ann Minsterl during a recent trip to the Pentagon.

Don Eovino, 1972 Olympian Frank Shorter and Barbie Dial Crandlemire, pose just prior to the start of the Diamond Head Duet on December 11. Don and Barbie had hoped to place in their combined age division for the 5K course. Barbie did :23:50 and Don :21:05 but they were aced out of the medal by Frank and his partner who took third place in a :41 total time. Frank was invited to the OCC for breakfast after the Marathon for his efforts and presented autographs to Don and Barbie.

Masters Swimming Top 10 Tabulations.

Don Eovino celebrated Christmas Eve in Hong Kong at the American Club with General Manager Doug Holz (formerly GM at Mid Pacific Country Club). As a memento of the OCC, Don presented Doug his 25th commemorative Honolulu Marathon racing singlet which he had worn on December 14. The singlet had been autographed by running guru Frank Shorter who was in town for the event.

Don celebrated Christmas Day twice this year, first in Hong Kong, and once again upon arriving at 11 a.m. Christmas Day in Hawaii.

Blair Shurtliff reports the "food was great" and the Christmas Party for the Diamond Head Ambassador will now be an annual affair, thanks to OCC. The Association has had occasional parties, but this one was so great, they've decided to make it annual. They had 8 & 9-year-old keiki hula dancers, a sing along of Christmas carols, and after cocktails and pupu, everybody could walk home. Blair describes Liz and her staff as "phenomenal!"

Donald Sheik entertained out-of-towners who came for the wedding of Jamie Tschetter, his niece. She was married on November 22, and on November 23 everybody came to the Sunday buffet for more aloha.

Dolores Martin was pleased to have daughter Mahi and son-in-law Bob Riley here for a visit from Idaho. They gathered at the Sunday buffet together with Mahi's brother Watters, and his wife, Kamuela, for a family dinner.

Eleanor Richardson and her Chi Omega sisters held their annual Christmas gathering at a luncheon in early December. They exchanged gifts by drawing and had much fun, enjoying the lovely weather, the incredible Christmas decorations and the good food.

Contributions to this column are always welcome. Leave items for the Editor at the Front Desk, fax to 833-1591 or email to OCCMag@aol.com. Be sure to include your name and phone number in case additional information is needed. ☺

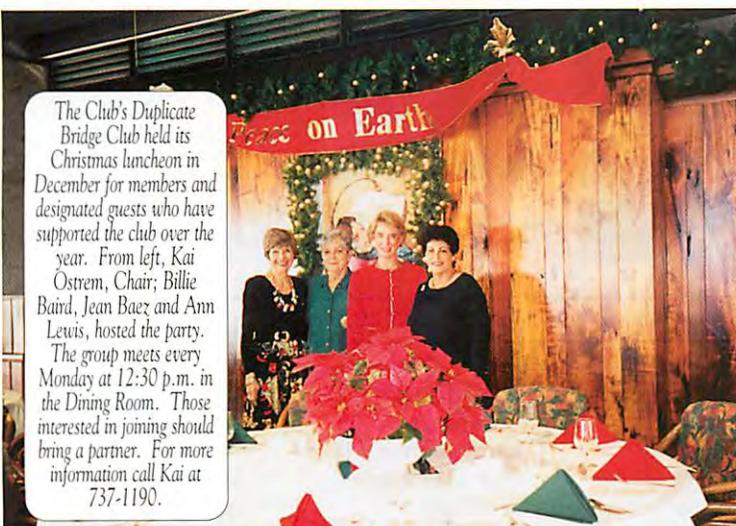

Jamie "Eddie" Lee and Kelly Scott of E&S Country Hawaiian Music

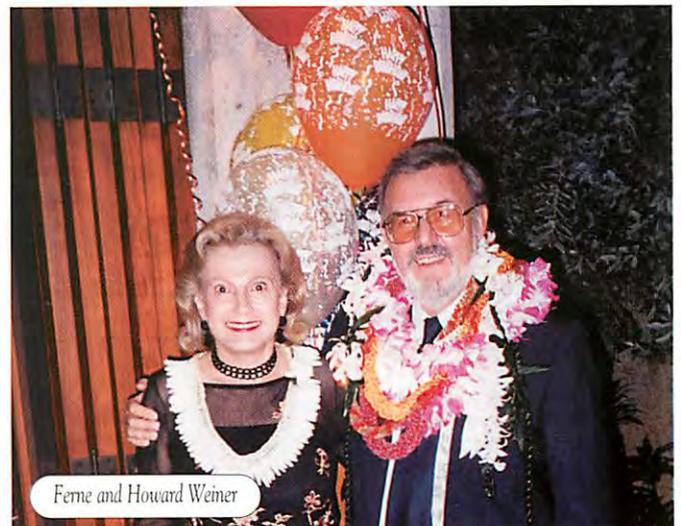

Ray, Pono and Vicki Suganuma

Enjoying lunch at the Princess Kaiulani Fashion Show on December 5 were Nancy Vivas, Marilyn Goss, Peggy Melim, Dicey Brinck, Jane Dimmitt, Leilani Bowen, Jean Culbertson, Ann Swanson.

The Club's Duplicate Bridge Club held its Christmas luncheon in December for members and designated guests who have supported the club over the year. From left, Kai Ostrem, Chair; Billie Baird, Jean Baez and Ann Lewis, hosted the party. The group meets every Monday at 12:30 p.m. in the Dining Room. Those interested in joining should bring a partner. For more information call Kai at 737-1190.

OCC Members Finish Honolulu Marathon, Busy Running Year

By Don Eovino

A 52-seat plush air conditioned bus quietly escorted more than 40 Outrigger Canoe Club members to the starting line of the 25th annual Honolulu Marathon on Sunday, December 14.

The number of OCC runners doubled from previous years and was quite impressive as most wore their newly emblazoned commemorative cool max running singlet, cap and embroidered running shorts that were subsidized by the Running Committee.

Massages awaited all the finishers and a surprise treat of breakfast was ordered for all those who signed up prior to the race and finished. A chocolate ice cream mound with fruits graced the platters awarded those who had finished.

Helping with the finishers this year, as years before, was Carolyn Corrigan who coordinated the mash tent, assisted by the always organized Gerri DeBenedetti, who helped record the finishers as they hobbled in.

Near perfect conditions allowed for a very fast and safe race as the men's record was broken. More than 26,000 runners finished the race, making this the third largest in the world.

Katherine Nichols was the Club's first finisher in 3:10:42.

Ruth Munro took 4th place in the 70-75 age division with her 5:54 finish.

The marathon culminates a year of running activities coordinated by the Running Committee.

1997 was a fun-filled year with the H-3 Trans-Koolau Trek, the Schofield Relays, the Club Day Hash, the profitable Non-Run, the 30-30 Relays, the very special Hana Relays, and the Marathon.

To build some camaraderie among the OCC runners, Steve Dunn, Running Committee member, has suggested bringing all independent runners together instead of everyone running on their own.

The Non-Run Training Run will be a regular run every Wednesday starting promptly at 5:30 p.m. from the Club. Runners can run at their own pace and distance, with the group starting and finishing in one hour—no more no less. To add to the bonding element, the Running Committee will prepare non-running t-shirts with the non-run character stenciled on the back, with the announcement of the 5th Annual Non-Run, July 27.

Members are encouraged to join the Wednesday running group and the Bar party afterward to exchange stories, running tips, recruitment for future events, and awarding of the non-runners in-training t-shirt.

Read the announcements in the tunnel about other future events and come out every Wednesday at 5:30 p.m.

A noteworthy mention for the month of May is a joint effort of the Swimming and Running committees for the first public invited 500-meter swim, 5K run Biathlon. This will be sponsored by the OCC and will be limited to 300 participants. The race will start at the OCC Beach with the swim out past the windsock and back, then the run around Kapiolani Park 1 1/2 times, finishing in front of the OCC.

Prizes will be awarded and t-shirts will be given to all finishers. Entry fee is $22. Show us your support and talk it up with your friends. You don't need to be an OCC member to enter.

This race is a lead-up to the summer triathlon and provides an opportunity to introduce the Club to outside runners who may be interested in being sponsored for membership. Ask Chrissy Lambert or Don Eovino for further details. ☺

Arabian Nights Party, Saturday, Feb. 21

By Deborah Peck and Christian Peterson

Rub your magic lantern and make a wish. It's party time again at the Outrigger Canoe Club. The Entertainment Committee is proud to present an Arabian Nights Party on Saturday, February 21 from 6-10 p.m.

Come join us for an exciting evening with exotic food and entertainment that the whole family will enjoy. Food stations will provide a heaping selection of delicious food with a Middle Eastern flavor.

There will be belly dances and fortune tellers to entertain you. We've even having an Arabian-style musical chairs contest.

Other entertainment includes tarot card reading, handwriting analysis, palm reading and psychometry. Mike Buck will emcee this extraordinary event that could be the party of the year.

There will be fabulous prizes offered for the best costumes. So polish up your belly dancing skills. Get out your harem pants and fez. Dress up and have fun. Club members will be talking about this party for months and you don't want to miss it.

Call the Front Desk and make your reservations now as this event is sure to sell out. It costs only $19.95 per person plus tax for an exotic night you are going to love. So, climb on your magic carpet and get down to the Club on Saturday, February 21. But please, leave your camels at home. ☺

New Hau Terrace Dinner Menu

In case you haven't noticed, the Hau Terrace has revised its dinner menu since last December. The menu cover was designed by member Arthur Goodfriend and is a bright and colorful depiction of a busy Hau Terrace. It's sure to be a conversation piece.

Management's goal was to replace the slow movers on the menu with new items that were delicious and not expensive. Prices were not increased.

New pupu items include a Club Combination Platter with crispy won ton, spring rolls, buffalo wings and pot stickers; a Shrimp and Scallop Kabob and the ono Poke Spring Rolls.

New dinner items include a Three Mushroom Stroganoff, our famous Beef Stew and Rice, Cashew Chicken and London Broil. Favorites such as the OCC mahi, prime rib and fresh fish are still available.

We offer two new wines by the glass, a Cabernet Sauvignon by St. Francis, Sonoma and a Pinot Grigio by Cortenova from Italy.

So come on down to the Terrace and try some new food and wines. ☺

Interested in Serving on a Club Committee?

All of the Club's Standing Committees invite members on serve on their committees each year.

Committee Preference Cards were mailed to all members with their February bill. Fill it out and return it to the Executive Office.

If you're interested in more than one committee, please fill out separate cards for each committee. Extra cards are available in the Executive Office.

Standing committees are Admissions & Membership, Athletics, Building & Grounds, Entertainment, Finance, Historical, House, Long Range Planning and Public Relations.

There are also various athletic subcommittees.

All committees are required to have at least one-third new members each year. New committees begin in April. ☺

When We Take Listings, We Take Them to the World

Reciprocal Club Review

By Valerie Davis

NOTE: Seventeenth in a series of Reciprocal Club Reviews, this month features the Indianapolis Athletic Club.

Yet another of our new Reciprocal Clubs, this one is located in downtown Indianapolis, just steps away from major business activities, theaters, art galleries, and superb shopping.

IAC is one of the city's oldest private clubs, founded in 1920, and, as would be expected, has a prominent membership including the Governor of Indiana, and the Mayor of Indianapolis.

The club occupies a 10 story building including a Racquet Sports Annex and an indoor parking garage, and has 75 hotel rooms. There are five dining and cocktail areas. The Meridian Room, like our MDR, is for upscale dining and the McHale Room is for pub dining—though is still listed as upscale. Both rooms require business attire.

The Vermont Street Pub is a more casual game room with billiard tables, darts and game tables, and the Welch is also a casual pub. Additionally there is a lunch area in the male locker area called the Squash Lounge. These dining areas are open every day except Sunday. Within the different rooms, they serve breakfast from 7-10 a.m. Monday-Friday; lunch 11 a.m.-2 p.m., Monday-Saturday; and dinner from 5-9 p.m. Monday-Friday and until 10 p.m. on Friday and Saturday.

The lounges are open from 11 a.m.-11 p.m. Monday-Saturday. The club has extensive private meeting and banquet rooms, including a grand ballroom.

The IAC has extensive athletic facilities which are open seven days a week, 6 a.m.-9 p.m. Monday-Friday; 8 a.m.-6 p.m. on Saturday and on Sunday from 10 a.m.-6 p.m. These facilities consist of a complete coed fitness center with StairMasters, StarTrak treadmills, rowing machines, NordicTrak, etc. There are also Reebok Step aerobics classes. There is a separate men's fitness area with cardio & free weights and a women's fitness area with cardio equipment.

They have a 25-yard, five lane indoor pool with all kinds of aquacise classes. This area also houses two whirlpools, eight squash courts, five racquetball courts, one full-court gym, steam room, saunas, massage therapy studios, a golf driving range, locker rooms, table tennis, sun deck and a pro shop.

IAC is the only private club in the downtown area to offer such a full fitness center.

The hotel section consists of 75 regular rooms, mini-suites and full suites. Room service dining is available, and there's a barber shop with four stylists, a manicurist and shoeshine service on the premises.

As of this writing the room rates are $90 for reciprocal guests in a standard room regardless of whether it's a single or double room. The larger mini suites are $100 per night, and the even larger corner full suites are $130. Taxes are additional. As usual, tariffs are subject to change, so it would be best to check when you make your booking.

Parking in the attached garage is free from 4 p.m.-midnight Monday-Friday with validation, and is discounted from 6 a.m.-3 p.m., Monday-Friday.

Your charges may be paid for by cash, personal check, or credit card. IAC will also bill back to OCC. There is an 18% gratuity added to all tabs, and additional tipping is permitted, but not necessary. As usual, an introductory card from the OCC office is required.

P.S. The Westminster Club in New Westminster, B.C. and, the Chinook Club in Lethbridge, Alberta have been dropped from our reciprocal list due to lack of participation. I did mention that this was being considered in review #13. ☺

The Outrigger

The Outrigger in the monthly publication for members of the Outrigger Canoe Club, both home and away. The magazine provides information on upcoming Club events, as well as highlights of Club athletic and social endeavors, actions taken by the Board of Directors, and items of general interest to members.

The Outrigger is produced by the Public Relations Committee. Members interested in submitting articles or photos for the magazine, should do so by the 25th of the month, five weeks prior to publication. For example, an article for the April magazine is due by February 25. Articles and photos may be left at the Front Desk for the Editor. They may also be faxed to (808) 833-1591 or e-mailed to OCCMag@aol.com.

The Outrigger accepts advertising from members in the form of display ads or business cards (Members It Pays to Know). For advertising information, rates and deadlines, contact Kyoko O'Neil at 373-1846. The deadline to contract for advertising is one month prior to publication. Charges for advertising are billed to the member's account. ☺

Extra Innings

1st Annual Awards BBQ is a Big Hit

The 1997 Outrigger Softball Team capped off its championship season with its first awards banquet at the home of Assistant Coach Bill Kilcoyne. A tremendous turnout of nearly the entire team and their families enjoyed an exceptional BBQ and loads of fun.

Everyone brought a special treat to go along with the steak, chicken, salads, rice and soft drinks provided by the team. The appetizer table was something to behold with all the incredible dips and spring rolls.

Special guest, OCC General Manager John Rader, brought wild boar in a black bean corn sauce. Another guest, Mark Brillhante, brought his homemade pumpkin crunch dessert.

Enjoying the Kilcoyne swimming pool were Kahiwa Letman, Courtney and Kainoa Gaddis, Deven Hoernig, Declan McAluney and Jon Kiner's grandson, Jeremiah.

Head Coach Jim Gaddis announced the 1997 player awards, the 1998 team captain and the 1998 Softball Committee, prior to Mike Buck's blessing.

The team voted pitcher Keith Letman as the 1997 Most Valuable Player. Keith edged out last year's MVP Cavanah and four-time MVP Kilcoyne by a narrow margin. Other players receiving votes were Jon Whittington, Clay Chee and Brian Hoernig.

Letman has shared pitching duties for the team for nearly 10 years. With Gaddis out with an injury, Letman started and finished every game in the Fall League. His defensive play insured a number of OCC wins. Keith also led the team in triples. His son, Kahiwa, rarely missed a game, enjoyed his 'bat boy' duties and often helped with the score book.

Keith heads the weekly post game BBQ with regulars Kilcoyne, Kiner, Whittington, Hoernig, McAluney and Gaddis. Keith served as 'executive chef' at the awards BBQ and did a masterful job on the steaks and chicken.

Keith Letman's name will go on a new koa bat trophy honoring softball MVP's from 1987 to the present.

The most improved player was Mike Miranda. Mike made a total commitment to OCC softball in 1997 and solidified the second base job with sparkling glove work and a consistent bat which launched him into the clutch clean-up spot in the lineup.

Assistant Coach Kilcoyne was the most inspirational player. His non-stop encouragement and leadership both on and off the field helped keep the team focused on their goal. Outfielder Jim McAluney succeeds Paki Vaughan's three year stint as Team Captain. Perhaps the most versatile player on the team, McAluney's keen knowledge, common sense and high energy will be a positive force for the team's future success.

As mentioned last month, the 1998 softball committee includes chairman and Head Coach Jim Gaddis, Bill 'Killer' Kilcoyne, Jon Whittington and Brian Hoernig. The four met for hours after the BBQ to discuss long term plans for 1998 and 1999. Whittington and Hoernig are working on plans to compete in neighbor island tournaments.

Perhaps the highlight of the party was the world heavyweight title fight on the television. The Kilcoyne living room was non-stop laughs and comments from the 'peanut gallery' cheering for whom they wanted to win and when (what round) they wanted it to happen.

The entire OCC team gives a big mahalo to Bill and Maureen Kilcoyne for their generous hospitality, not to mention all the hard work they did in preparing food all day Saturday and cleaning up the mess afterward.

By the way, coaches Gaddis and Kilcoyne shopped for all the food in a record breaking 10 minutes and came within $13 of their budget without the use of a calculator. How's that for no nonsense shopping?

The new 1998 committee is working hard to expand the horizons for OCC softball. Check the bulletin board to find out when the Leahi Spring League starts up and support your team. Thank you. ☺

Admissions & Membership Report—The membership count was 4,286 as of November 30, 1997.

Building & Grounds Report—The umbrella stands in the Main Dining Room are rusting and need to be replaced.

House Report—The Chinook and New Westminster Clubs in Canada have been dropped as reciprocal clubs. . . The St. James Club and the Petroleum Club of Houston were approved as reciprocal clubs.

Historical Report—The Board voted to nominate Ernest "Tommy" Thomas as a Life Member candidate.

Judges of Election—Richard Ferguson was selected as chair of the Judges of Election Committee... Nominated for the Board of Directors were Peter Ehrman, Hal Henderson, Karl Heyer IV, John Marshall, Glenn Perry, Liz Perry, John Pyles, Joyce Timpson. Ø

Employee of the Month

Employee of the Month, Jennifer Boeder, has been at the Snack Shop for one year, and enjoys her work. Formerly at the Pacific Club, it is OCC's gain to have her cooking for us. She lives alone, but has a father and two brothers for family here.

She likes to drive motorcycles, but currently is only on a moped. Her employee award money will go into the wish fund.

According to her co-workers at the Snack Shop, it is Jennifer's bubbly attitude and cheerfulness that make them all so happy.

Members are reminded that if you receive extraordinary service or assistance from one of our employees, you can nominate them as the Employee of the Month by leaving a note of explanation at the Front Desk. Ø
