A Day at the Races Began in 1908 in Waikiki

By Barbara Del Piano

Outrigger's first canoe racing champions in 1908 were front: Kenneth Brown, Ted Melanphy, Dad Center. Back: Knute Cotrell, Vizen Genoves, Harry Steiner.

An early canoe race in Waikiki.

Gone were the days when chiefs and commoners rode the waves of Kalehuawehe on enormous eighteen-foot koa surfboards.

Outrigger canoe racing was a thing of the past when the Outrigger Canoe Club was formed in 1908. Gone were the days when chiefs and commoners rode the waves of Kalehuawehe on enormous eighteen-foot koa surfboards. In the early 1900s, barge racing in Honolulu Harbor was the "in" water sport of the islands, after it was introduced by foreigners in the early 1860s.

But it didn't take long for the new club on the beach to resurrect the old sport. With Teddy Roosevelt's "Great White Fleet" due to arrive on July 4, 1908 Club members hastily organized a regatta to entertain the Navy men. Every available canoe on the island was recruited for the day-long event which attracted around 5,000 sailors, kamaaina, and malihini who gathered along the beach to witness the first such activity at Waikiki in the memory of anyone present.

By today's standards, it was more of a water carnival than a regatta, but it aroused a long-dormant interest in outrigger canoeing that would grow over the years to become one of Hawaii's most popular water sports.

On a promotional tour of the mainland in 1909, Club founder Alexander Hume Ford contacted a cruise line whose ships were to stop in Honolulu later in the year. When Ford suggested a regatta of surfing and canoe races to entertain the visitors, the cruise line's agent, Frank C. Clark, was so enthusiastic that he offered to donate four silver trophies for prizes. Unfortunately, when the first liner arrived, the ocean was flat and the races were cancelled. Later in the year, the second such event took place with Outrigger competing against crews from two US Navy cruisers and men from a Belgian training ship. This time the waves were too big and several canoes swamped or collided; some of the events were postponed.

Since Honolulu Harbor was the popular venue for water sports in the early 1900s, Outrigger arranged for some canoe races to be included in Regatta Day events that drew thousands of spectators downtown to watch the famous Healani and Myrtle Boat Club barges compete against one another. In 1909, five outrigger canoes entered. The following year, the number increased as both the famed boat clubs entered canoes as well as barges, and Prince Kuhio sent a crew from Kona to paddle his famed koa racing canoe, "A."

In 1918, when Regatta Day was cancelled because of harbor restrictions brought about by World War I, the canoe races held at Waikiki attracted a huge crowd and set the stage for the revival and growth of ocean canoe racing. Three clubs, Healani, Outrigger and the newly formed Hui Nalu, competed against one another. The Waikiki events usually included a variety of water sports including swimming, diving, body surfing, board surfing, canoe paddling and canoe sailing.

It was not until 1933, twenty-five years after the Club's founding, that paddling reached a peak and the first of three popular Kona Regattas was held at Kealakekua Bay. For the first time, the regattas were devoted exclusively to canoeing paddling.

Regatta Day in Honolulu Harbor 1919. Our crew was Dad Center, Charlie Lambert, Sonny Ruttman, Harold Harvey, Francis Bowers, Edric Cook.

The Macfarlane Regatta is now the oldest continuous outrigger canoe paddling event in Hawaii's history

Outrigger's three crews, coached by "Dad" Center, had a huge send off at Waikiki before the canoes were paddled to Honolulu Harbor and loaded aboard the S.S. Humuula for the journey to Kona. The event turned out to be an island-wide celebration with boat-loads of people, including the Governor, and scores of dignitaries from throughout the Territory traveling to the Big Island. Outrigger won the regatta. Its big win of the day was the Junior-six, with a crew consisting of Jack Fraser, Dick Burkland, Reynolds Burkland, Dick Bechert, Herb Jordon, and Campbell Stevenson. After just three years, the regattas were moved to Oahu and held at Honolulu Harbor.

The Outrigger Canoe Club continued to advance the sport, encouraging the formation of new paddling clubs, but it wasn't until 1943, when World War II was still raging, that outrigger races really made a big impact on the public. After the tragic death of Outrigger president, Walter J. Macfarlane, Club members wracked their brains to come up with a fitting memorial for their fallen leader. Finally, the idea surfaced of naming a July 4th regatta in his honor. The idea took off and Matson Navigation Co., whose ties with Outrigger in those days were close, donated a huge silver trophy to be awarded to the winner of the "Senior Six." The event was highly publicized and thousands of spectators lined the beach. It was fitting that Outrigger won the "Senior Six" and Walter Mac's mother, Kamokila Campbell, donated champagne with which she personally filled the huge silver bowl and from which both winners and runners-up drank. The crew, coached and steered by Duke Kahanamoku, consisted of Thad Ekstrand, Jack Beaumont, Tom Arnott, Jim Fernie and Bob Bush.

That day was the start of a tradition that has continued for 67 years. In 2009 more than 1000 paddlers participated in the Macfarlane Regatta, now the oldest continuous outrigger canoe paddling event in Hawaii's history. Although many other regattas have been established over the years, the Macfarlane remains one of the most popular of all.

Thus began a period of tremendous growth in Outrigger canoe paddling races. From then on, the sport grew exponentially with the formation of new paddling clubs and public popularity, and continues to this day with high schools, churches, and groups of all kinds forming clubs and entering crews in a myriad of regattas throughout the islands. The Hawaiian Canoe Racing Association (HCRA) was formed in 1950, with support from the Outrigger Canoe Club, establishing rules and regulations to set standards for the sport. Today, HCRA boasts a membership of 80 clubs consisting of 10,000 paddlers. The Oahu Hawaiian Canoe Racing Association (OH CRA) was formed in 1979 and today its membership includes more than 3000 paddlers and 18 clubs on Oahu alone. People of all ages and nationalities now participate in this sport of kings, which, but for the Outrigger Canoe Club, might well be but a chapter in Hawaiian history.

Tsunami Saturday Brings Out the Best in Members

By Mark Jackola

On Saturday February 27 with a tsunami warning issued for the state at 6 a.m., a group of members spontaneously appeared at the Outrigger Canoe Club and began the necessary actions to protect the assets of the Club.

First on the agenda were the valuable and historic koa canoes, Kakina, Leilani and Kaoloa. The canoes were loaded onto a trailer and moved to higher ground on the upper levels of the OCC parking structure.

The fiberglass canoes were also moved from the beach to the parking structure. The new Boston Whaler was moored about one mile off shore under the direction of Don Isaacs, with Jimmy Austin, Anthony Hunt and Mark Jackola untangling the anchor lines.

Bruce Black arrived about this time and took out his sailing canoe which is moored in the basin in front of the Club. He also towed several members OC-4's to the deep hole outside Castles. He remained there on the smaller OCC Boston Whaler during the entire time of the tsunami, to make sure no one could steal or pilfer from our Club and members' boats.

Scott and Craig Gamble and Curt and Chris Deweese were actively assisting where ever needed.

Also high on the priority list for preservation were the paper archives of the Club that are stored in the Board Room on the lower floor of the Club. Some of these historical records are still on the original printed paper, so are irreplaceable.

Bob Beck, John Lacy, Jeff Kissel, Gib Bintliff, Van Corum and Norman Ho took responsibility for retrieving the archives and placing them out of harm's way.

Others who assisted with the tsunami preparation were Mike Kane, Angie Giancaterino, Dolan Eversole and Kaione Scott.

Liz Ventura staffed the Front Desk and fielded hundreds of calls about what was going on, with such a smile and great attitude; this helped the rescue crew to focus on the task at hand. General Manager Mike Ako was everywhere multitasking and managing the events.

Thanks to other members who may have helped that day and haven't been named. We appreciate your concern and hard work to move important items to safety.

Thank goodness the five tsunami waves that arrived after 11 a.m. didn't cause destruction anywhere in the islands. We dodged the bullet on this one. Hopefully we'll be this lucky when hurricanes or tsunamis threaten us in the future.

Reciprocal Club Review

Review #52 features The Bellevue Club, Washington

By Valerie Davis

Situated 10 miles east of downtown Seattle in the suburb of Bellevue is The Bellevue Club. Founded in 1979 this beautiful club has a wide variety of athletic and dining facilities that will appeal to our members. They've been in the same building since inception, and are also located next to a 67 room four-story boutique hotel situated on nine landscaped acres. Their membership is 5,200.

The club boasts three swimming pools, a 60 foot outdoor pool in a garden setting open May to September and two indoor pools. One is a 25 yard six lane recreation pool and the other a nine lane competition pool-plus a luxurious two level whirlpool bath area.

The club has both indoor and outdoor tennis courts. There's a very large fitness center where all kinds of classes are available such as yoga, pilates and kinesis. Kinesis is a wood paneled wall with a built-in cable pulley system placed to target various areas of the body providing a pinpointed workout. There's also a spa which offers manicure/pedicures and massages.

Dinosaur Tournament Goes On Despite Tsunami Warning

Twenty-three men's teams and six women's teams waited out the tsunami warning on February 27-28 to compete in the Dinosaur Volleyball Tournament on the Club courts. The tournament was won for the fourth year in a row by Jim Nichols and Greg Lyles of Los Angeles 15-7 over Stevie Li and Todd Harrison. Marcie Nowack and Dianna McKibbin won the women's title. Awards were presented at a BBQ after the championship matches.

Outrigger Canoe Club Wine Committee Contest

By Bruce Liebert

The label on the OCC Chardonnay

In recognition of our Centennial year, the label used on our house wines was changed several years ago. Moving into the next decade, the Wine Committee would like to have a new label on our popular Chardonnay and Merlot house wines. We are soliciting your input for the redesign and announcing a contest with a wonderful prize for the winner.

Our house wines are provided by the Langtry/Guenoc vineyards. Lillian Langtry was an English socialite and actress who moved to northern California and planted vines starting in 1888, establishing the vineyard eventually used to produce our private-label wines.

All OCC members above the Junior level are eligible to enter the contest. Incorporate an OCC logo into the design of the front label; the rear label will not be changed. Entries, preferably in pdf format, are to be submitted to the OCC Wine Committee, or emailed to bruce.liebert@gmail.com, by May 31. More than one entry per member is allowed.

The winner will be announced at a special Guenoc wine tasting and pupu party in October and receive a night for two at the Sheraton Waikiki Hotel along with dinner at Azure or Rumfire restaurants courtesy of Easton Manson of Guenoc-Langtry winery.

The Wine Committee thanks you for your participation.

Backward Glances

By Barbara Del Piano, Historical Committee

50 Years Ago...1960

James Ward Russell Jr., President

After being nominated by an all-male committee for the Board of Directors, Mariechen Wehseleau Jackson was elected as the first woman in Club history to serve in that capacity.

Robert Wakefield Mist, President

A room on the Club's lower level, named "The Gentlemen's Lounge," was used primarily for Board meetings and functions restricted to male voting members. At the annual meeting in February, 1975, an announcement was made that the room, renamed the "Board Room," would henceforth be available to all voting members.

For more than ten years, women had petitioned for a Molokai to Oahu race. Officials adamantly maintained rough waters of the channel were too dangerous for wahine paddlers. They were proved wrong when, in 1975, crews from Healani Canoe Club and Onipaa, a group of strong paddlers from different clubs, including Outrigger's Ann Nichol, set out on an unofficial forty-mile contest across Kaiwi Channel. Although it was a successful crossing, it was not until four years later that HCRA sanctioned an official Molokai to Oahu race for women.

Harwood Daniel Williamson, President

Bruce Ames, a member of the Board of Directors, solicited support for induction of a woman in the all-male organization, Winged "O." With help from the Historical Committee, he worked hard to promote the idea which initially received little enthusiasm from the Winged "O" Selection Committee. Persistence paid off when Diane Stowell was awarded the prestigious honor the following year.

Employee of the Month

Marie Felton

By Stephen Riede

Marie Felton joined the Club in February 1987 as a Dining Room Hostess and then Koa Lanai supervisor. She transferred to the Business Office in December 2008 where she accepted the position of Cashier Clerk.

The transition was challenging, but worthwhile, and Marie has expressed her gratitude to retiring Controller Gordon Smith in helping her make the change.

Our new controller, Joyce Nobriga says "Marie always manages to keep a positive attitude even when dealing with difficult issues. She takes a lot of pride in her work and is an essential part of our Business Office team".

In her spare time, Marie does volunteer work for her church and provides care for her Mom. She enjoys being with friends, reading, and trying to keep up with her daughter who is attending Boise State College in Idaho.

Congratulations Marie for this well deserved honor.

BOARD BRIEFS

Board Briefs is taken from the minutes of the Board of Directors meeting on March 25, 2010.

Club's Financials: Gordon Smith presented a brief overview of the Club's financial structure; OCC Funds (Building Fund, Operating Fund and Capital Improvement Fund) and Operating Fund Goals (Food and Beverage goals, Dues, Capital Expenditure goals and Initiation Fees).

Membership Count: The Membership Count was 4,780 as of February 28, 2010.

Finance Report: The Board accepted the annual audit report from KMH, LLC. Copies of the report are available for Board members to review.

Comeback Approval by the Club Captain & Athletic Coordinating Director: The Board approved, in accordance with Board Policy 3.2.6.3, the authority for the Club Captain and Coordinating Director of Athletics to approve any budgeted comebacks relating to off island events/competitions.

Scope of Authority & Responsibility of the Executive Committee: The Board reaffirmed the Scope of Authority and Responsibility of the Executive Committee.

Persona Non Grata: The Board approved this list. In addition, the criterion (convicted felon) for "persona non grata" designation as stated in Board Policy 2.3.7 was discussed.

Financial Statement: Financially, February was weaker than budgeted, primarily due to the inclement weather and lack of high end catering business. There was Net Income from Operations of $52,888 which is $14,188 under budget, and year to date, net income is $44,103, which is $9,797 above budget. For February, there was a combined Food & Beverage loss (with the mini-charge) of $39,480 which is $15,680 below budget.

Projects in Progress: The Building and Grounds Committee approved the revised fee proposal for engineering design services which will bundle the remaining phases of the plumbing project. This will include work on the back of the house plumbing infrastructure (laundry room, employee locker rooms, storeroom, etc.) and the Snack Shop with new drain lines under the Snack Shop running through canoe alley to a new, larger grease interceptor. It is estimated that the Snack Shop will be closed for 4 - 6 weeks. In addition, canoe alley will also be closed when the trenching begins. Work will not occur in that area until after the long distance paddling season is finished.

Unrelated Business Income: Year to date, Non-member income is $5,188 above last year.

Buildings and Grounds: Eric Crispin has agreed to chair this committee. House: Bruce Liebert has agreed to chair this committee.

Athletics: The Board approved the design for the canoe racing jersey. Keanuene will be printed across the front of the jersey (chest area) in honor of deceased Senior member, Keanuene Rochlen.

Public Relations: This committee approved a six month trial period for posting non-commercial ads on the web site with the same restrictions currently used for the locker room bulletin boards. It will be administered by Stephen Riede (Executive Office).

Currently, committee members are calling new members to "welcome" them to the Club. The idea of a new member orientation is being considered.
