ABOUT THE COVER

What's so fair as a day in May unless it's a day sparkling with Hawaiian sunshine at Waikiki and graced by Leilani Cowan. Leilani, 20-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard F. Cowan, is a stewardess with Hawaiian Airlines.

Teenage idol Ricky Nelson, in the islands to film "The Wackiest Ship in the Army" spends his leisure hours off camera at the Outrigger. During his first visit to the islands a year or so ago, Ricky became an avid surfer under the tutelage of Rabbit Kekai. The teenage recording and screen star will celebrate his 20th birthday this month.

An enterprising young bride-to-be, Jo Shaw, has formed her own bathing suit firm . . . Darci Enterprises. So much favorable comment followed Jo's personally designed suits that she decided to go into business, the outrigger being her first outlet.

Incidentally, Jo and David Howard will exchange wedding vows this summer. Congratulations to both.

This will be the Red Vest, located in the Colony International and done in old English decor. Incidentally, Buzzy is a successful papa too. Wife Bobbie Lou gave birth April 1 to a little girl, his third.

The Forecast, exhibited in Madrid, Spain, a year ago, has attracted some attention in Denmark too. At least we received a letter from a Mr. Max Rasmussen of Odder, Denmark, asking for the Forecast. Wonder how the surf is this time of year?

Rory and Lita Calhoun

Television and screen star Rory Calhoun, his lovely wife Lita and their children, are vacationing at the Outrigger Canoe Club. The handsome western hero has had the title role in the TV series, "The Texan."

Colonel and Mrs. Douglas Johnston have recently returned from a six month trip around the world. The couple visited the Eastern Mediterranean countries, Turkey, Bulgaria, Yugoslavia, Austria and Germany and paid an extended visit to Thailand. The Johnstons are home at 453 Kolohala Street.

Relatives and friends gathered at the final rites over the ashes of Sam Poepoe at Waikiki Beach. In accordance with Mr. Poepoe's wish, his ashes were scattered among the waves offshore.

One of the finest athletes in the history of the Outrigger, Mr. Poepoe led "Winged-O" football, track and swimming teams and was a surfing and canoe team champion for many years.

In lieu of flowers, contributions are being accepted for a perpetual memorial in the form of an event in the MacFarlane Day races named for Mr. Poepoe. Contributions may be sent to Dad Center at the OCC.

Friends of "Uncle Jack" and "Annt Bea" MacKenzie surprised the couple on the Outrigger Sundeck with a party celebrating a double occasion . . . Jack's 65th birthday and the MacKenzie's 35th wedding anniversary.

Kaimana Hila, Backdrop To Waikiki

As much a part of Hawaii as the Hula girl and the Lei is the stage-like, lava backdrop to Waikiki . . . Diamond Head.

For very few photographers, illustrators, and painters will return to the Mainland without a sampling of one of the world's most famous silhouettes, a dormant volcano with an estimated age of 15,000 years.

Diamond Head, Kaimana Hila, we call it today. Yet the age-old wrinkled mound of lava standing above Waikiki has had numerous titles . . . and an interesting history.

Hawaiians called her Leahi Hill with a literal translation of "forehead of the ahi fish."

In days of yore it has been named Point Rose, the Conical Mountain, Diamond Hill, and Yellow Diamond Hill. But whatever, she remained a landmark and welcome sight to sailors aboard whaling vessels to tourists aboard the Lurline.

The present title, Diamond Head was bestowed when visiting English sailors thought they had discovered mines of immense wealth. Their joy was short lived, however, when they learned what they had thought to be diamonds only worthless calcite crystals.

During this period, the great King Kamehameha placed a ban on the area until the true worth of the crystals was discovered.

The kapu was lifted but the name remained.

It was the same King Kamehameha I that placed cattle, given him as a gift by the explorer Vancouver, in the crater floor to graze.

Years later, the Federal Government took interest in the crater land and its overgrown density of haole-koa trees, keawe brush, and ilima. And with the inception of the First World War, Diamond Head turned from pasture land to a gun emplacement with a fantastic view of the Pacific.

A second great war developed Diamond Head into an even more mighty military bastion. Roads, tunnels and gun mounts were built, giving the old volcano an importance of a minor Gibraltar.

Several hundred men made their war time homes within the crater.

In 1950, the underground maze of tunnels was opened to the public for the first time since the government purchased Diamond Head in 1904.

Again closed by U.S. "kapu," Kaimana Hila serves as a training ground for Hawaii National Guard troops.

Changes underground, war, discoveries, a host of names have not changed her . . . Diamond Head remains the sentinel of Waikiki!

Ernie is as busy as the proverbial cranberry merchant these days! Seldom see him at the club.

Yes, we mean club member Ernest Bovee, who has been president of Royal Hawaiian Liqueurs, less than a year and a half ago and now has so many mainland orders he is literally 'up to his ears' in banana peels, coffee beans, et cetera.

Ernie's been developing a fascinating line of island flavors that would excite even a soporific tongue, namely banana, Kona coffee, passion fruit, and lichi liqueurs.

He believes his banana liqueur has the reputation of being the only one in the world made from fresh bananas only with no artificial flavoring or coloring added.

It's delicious over fresh fruit, as ice cream topping, and other desserts as well as mixed drinks. The other flavors boast the same versatility.

Here is one of the many creations you can serve as an exciting tongue tingler with the banana liqueur.

PINEAPPLE AND BANANAS FLAMBE

- 6 large bananas
- 2 cups of cubed fresh or frozen pineapple
- 1/4 lb. butter
- 2/3 cup brown sugar
- A touch of cinnamon
- 1 qt. (hard) pineapple sherbet
- 3 oz. jiggers dark rum
- 1 oz. jigger Banana Liqueur

Quarter bananas lengthwise. Melt butter in a skillet, or in a chafing dish in the dining room. Add brown sugar and a dash of cinnamon. Then add pineapple and banana. Saute lightly stirring as little as possible. When almost done add liqueur and rum. When hot, flame and serve immediately.

Presentation . . .

In the meantime at each place, or a point of service, set in a glass dish or preferably in a scooped out pineapple half (cut lengthwise with foliage), a generous scoop of pineapple sherbet. Spoon the fruit mixture over the ice cream, immediately after flaming.

The Outrigger Canoe Club volleyball team had its year-long tournament record spoiled in unsuccessfully defending its State title to the Central YMCA on the eve of departure to Dallas and the National Championship Tournament.

The Central team vanquished the OCC men in the third round of the tournament and then in the finals to earn the 1960 State title.

Although the victory gives the YMCA the right to represent Hawaii in the National Tournament, May 11-14 in Dallas, plans for the Outrigger's participation have not been changed.

The ten man team departs on May 6 at 8:30 a.m. for Los Angeles and plans to arrive in Dallas the following day.

Central, bolstered by the presence of Mel Hewitt and Merv Lyons, who played earlier in the season for the University of Hawaii team, played the best brand of volleyball displayed all year in defeating the Outrigger for the first time in four meetings this year.

The Outrigger defeated Fort Shafter and Kuhio Grill with relative ease before losing to Central 6-15, 15-4, and 11-14 in a thriller.

The OCC spikers defeated Hickam Air Force Base in the loser's bracket to gain a second meeting with Central.

In the finals, the consistent play of the Central team made the difference as they walked away with the title, 15-10, 15-12.

The final game was a thriller, as the OCC team, down 14-7, sustained a drive that carried them within two points of Central. The final point was scored as the clock ran out.

Outrigger and Central Y will scrimmage throughout the week at the YMCA before departure.

The OCC's ten man team will leave Honolulu on May 8 at 9:30 a.m. for Los Angeles, arriving in Dallas the following day. They are scheduled to return on May 16.
