OUTRIGGER CANOE CLUB

XMAS COVER ACCLAIMED

The Forecast's Annual Special Christmas Edition has spurred a great deal of comment in regard to the colorful yuletide cover, specially designed for the Outrigger.

It is with red faces that we realize that no mention was made of the fine artists who worked on the stained glass window-like color cover.

Nicki Ingram, formerly of Detroit, Michigan, and now with Boland Associates Advertising Agency in Honolulu, designed the rough draft for the Forecast Christmas Issue.

Finalization was made by Peter Sapasap, head of Boland's Art Department.

Hat's off to Nicki and Pete for one of the finest we have seen in some years.

A Happy New Year to all of the club membership! Great things are planned for all of you in 1960, which already shapes up on the planning boards to surpass a great 1959. Look forward and plan along with us.

We will now be serving food on the Hau Terrace on Mondays from noon until 8 p.m. due to the large groups we have been experiencing during the usual club "day off."

The Charcoal Broiler will be ready to serve those delicious hamburgers and steaks, as well as other favorite

Again, we have to make a mention in this column in regard to dress in the Dining Rooms. As always there are to be coats worn in the main Dining Room. The Sundeck area accommodates those wearing sport and aloha shirts. However, we must be emphatic about not wearing shorts in this area through the evening. Slacks and aloha shirts, please!

Our wonderful employees have asked me to express their heartfelt thanks for the members' generous contributions to the Annual Christmas Fund. A gala party was held on Mon-

CLUB OF THE MONTH

THE COLLEGE CLUB

By A. G. Goode, Manager

The College Club of Seattle is a non-profit corporation owned and operated by its members and is located in the center of town about two blocks from the Olympic Hotel.

When the founding group held its first meeting, the original and foremost aim was to build an organization where young college men of similar training and background might meet for wholesome sociability. Over the years, despite two World Wars and a depression, The College Club has developed until today it operates in its own four-story, mortgage-free building. The Club has a net worth of $500,000, and a single membership is valued at approximately $650.00. It provides some living quarters, both permanent and transient, and offers its members a variety of services, recreational facilities and a social program designed to meet the changing needs of its members, their families and guests.

Here is how it all started. In the years between 1900 and 1910 five college men arrived in Seattle to start their careers in the Pacific Northwest. They had in common the spirit which had brought them to the West, their college traditions and ideals, their youth and their needs. They particularly wanted a social life more nearly comparable to that which they had left behind; a place, or a group to which young men like themselves would come; and more attractive living quarters. Someone spoke of his wish to form a club which would answer these needs, as well as offer its members mutual assistance in becoming established in the expanding community.

The talks progressed; the city grew. By 1910 talk became action. July of that year, in the assembly room of the old Henry Building, the original nucleus of twenty held its first meeting. When Articles of Incorporation were filed the following October 11th, the College Club of Seattle numbered approximately fifty members.

From 1910 until 1921 headquarters were varied. They were first established in a suite of rooms on the second floor of the old Federal Court Building at 4th and Marion. The next move, in 1912, was to a two-story Club House on the northwest corner of 5th and Seneca (site of the Olympic Hotel) especially erected for this purpose by the Metropolitan Building Corporation. Some members considered the location "too far out of town."

The Club remained at this location through good years of developing activities and ascending prestige, and through the lean and precarious years of World War I when membership and income dropped to a dangerously low point. Then came the post-war upswing, and a need for a new home for the College Club. In time a site was chosen, plans were drawn, and $200,000 was approved for the construction of the new four-story club house at 6th and Spring.

December 21, 1921, was the big day. The Seattle Star ran off a special edition in which the entire front page was devoted to the dedication of the new College Club Building. At the banquet that evening, Dr. Henry Suzalo, President of the University of Washington, dedicated the facilities of the Club to the perpetuation of good fellowship and the maintenance of the ideals and teaching of college life.

In the past forty-two years Club fortunes have risen and fallen along with the economic and international trends of the periods. Since 1935, when membership had sprung back to 500 after the depression, the trend has been upward. Today the members number approximately 1,100, and collegiate representation includes universities from all over the United States, Europe, Canada and Hawaii.

The clubhouse is constituted as follows: On the first floor are located the Offices, Gym, Card Room, Pool and Billiard Room and Bar. The second floor contains the Main Lounge, the Library, the Main Dining Room, and in the southwest corner of the building, with its own entrance on Sixth Avenue, the Ladies' Annex. The third and fourth floors contain the private dining, conference and sleeping rooms.

In the Ladies' Annex is the Family Dining Room, which provides feminine atmosphere in which to entertain the family, friends and children. Here one may entertain guests for luncheon in the dining room, cards later in the lounge. Or may drop in for a cocktail in the afternoon.

Bar service is also available in private dining rooms, which are of various sizes and are available for private functions such as wedding receptions, cocktail parties, organizational meetings, luncheons, etc. Parties of two or two hundred can find a room to fit. A small group may enjoy privacy, or a medium to very large group can be served with ease.

The Card Room, the Pool and Billiard Room, the Library of fiction, reference works, general reading and periodicals satisfy varied interests. The well-equipped gym is available for exercise or work-out. Reservations for a game of squash, badminton, handball or basketball may be made at the Club Office, where locker space is also arranged.

The Main Lounge is for the use of members and male guests. It's a pleasant place to meet friends, or to relax alone watching television. The Library, to the right of the main stairway, provides a choice selection of old and new books and periodicals. Books may be checked out at the Club office, and a splendid reference section is available for use in the Library.

Although most of the bedrooms are occupied by members on a permanent status, a few rooms are reserved for transient members or male guests of members.

A well rounded entertainment program is in swing all year round. Formal and informal dances, Men's Stag Parties, Children's Easter, Halloween and Christmas Parties, Theatre Parties, and College football outings are just some of the many activities available to the College Club members or bona fide guests.

'For Men Only' Fashion Show Woos Male Members

The Outrigger Canoe Club's male contingent were swept off the beach and the volleyball courts recently for a peek at intimate fashions for women by Andrade's.

The Cocktail Hour Fashion Show "for men only" attracted a host of men partially interested in those special gifts for women at Christmas time viewed almost 50 numbers enthusiastically in the Old Timers Lounge.

The Dining Room and Cocktail Lounge was simultaneously active as a second runway guided models through a mixed audience.

Six lovely misses modeled lovely peignoirs and blushing nightwear behind the witty commentary of Dick Wheeler, president of Andrade's.

"Visions of sugar plums danced in their heads" at the Outrigger Canoe Club's annual Keiki Party at Waikiki Beach.

Children congregated at the Club grounds on the 18th of December to meet with the grand old man of Christmas as he arrived—not with seven reindeer pulling his sled—but Hawaiian style in an Outrigger Canoe.

Sheriff Ken, local television star, greeted the kiddies in the afternoon with a party on the lawn.

Then, shortly before sunset, the Sheriff led the children to the water's edge to meet Santa Claus in person.

Mobbed as he stepped ashore, the bewhiskered gentleman hoisted lucky youngsters aloft with his roaring greetings.

All were given gifts from Santa's bag and had dinner on the sundeck.

CROSS-HAINE CAPTURE STATE DOUBLES TITLE

The Holiday Season was no letup for the Outrigger Canoe Club's rapidly spreading acclaim as one of the nation's top volleyball teams as they walked off with the number one and two spots in the State Doubles Championships.

Billy Cross and Tom Haine, former all americans, finished first in a field of seventeen teams.

They defeated the Outrigger's Ron Sorrell and Pete Velasco two straight in the finals.

Wally Wong and Dan Ordenson of the Central YMCA placed third.

Also entered in the tourney, played on the University of Hawaii campus during the Holidays, were Bob Muirhead and Mark Auerbach, Peter Balding and Al Lemes, Shippy Kealoha and Fred Noa, and Pat Wyman and J. Awai.

It was Cross and Haine's second statewide title in as many years during the recent renaissance of volleyball in the Islands.

Both are members of the six man team which is pointing to a second State title and representing the Islands at the National Tourney in 1960.

BRAGG TOPS WAIKIKIANS IN DIAMOND HEAD RACE

A youthful California surfer out-stroked Hawaii's top water sports enthusiasts to capture the annual Diamond Head to Waikiki Beach race on December 27.

Bill Bragg covered the six mile course in 54 minutes 20.24 seconds, flashing across the finish line ahead of Rabbit Kekai and Ed Whaley, who finished second and third in that order.

It was two years in a row that Californians had copped the Blue Ribbon event. James Piper of Hermosa Beach won top honors in 1958.

Tommy Zahn won the Class A event over six miles for stock surfboards. Zahn covered the course in 56 minutes 8 seconds.

In the Class B event, John Rice, also of California, topped the field of entries. A third California teammate, Robin Grigg, won the women's one mile event in 13:40.5.

Zahn was the only double event winner of the day as he won the 220 yard sprint in 1:55.4.

HUNGARIAN OLYMPIC STAR AIDS OCC KAYAK TEAMS

Instruction and training in the OCC's latest and most exciting athletic venture in some years, Olympic Canoe Racing, swung into high gear last month as a former Hungarian Olympian opened sessions on the Ala Wai Canal.

Miklos Tottossy, now attending Stanford University, coached outrigger hopefuls in the Olympic style of kayak and Canadian canoe competition.

The youthful freedom fighter cited both Hawaii's weather and the Ala Wai Canal as ideal for Olympic training purposes.

"You can lay out a 10,000 meter course and also have a straightaway course for the sprint races of 1,000 meters," Tottossy pointed out.

Tottossy and Outrigger Canoe Coach George Downing laid out a training program for OCC athletes already trained for the Hawaiian Outrigger Canoe Events.

Three canoes have already been purchased from European Kayak Builders in hopes of stirring up future interest in the Olympic sport, OCC President Fred Steere stated.

"The Outrigger Canoe Club feels there is a need for training young men in Olympic paddling to give our country stronger representation at Olympic Games. We hope to find several outstanding prospects from within our own membership," he said.

Steere underlined the Molokai to Oahu race as a proving ground for durability in long distance paddling that will produce the Olympic stars of tomorrow.

In addition to the Outrigger, steps have been made by John Bustard, Chairman of the Public Relations Committee of the AAU, to interest service, interscholastic, and beach club teams in the Kayak and Canadian Paddling events.

ART PROGRAM ANNOUNCED BY SPORTS-ART GROUP

NEW YORK The formation of a new educational institution, The National Art Museum of Sports, has been announced here by a group of nationally prominent artists, sportsmen and businessmen. The NAMOS, as it is called, has been chartered by the Board of Regents of the University of the State of New York.

Its basic function is to increase appreciation of art by familiarizing the sportsminded public with works of art in the sports field, and to provide inspiration for new works.

Its founding members include artists, writers, sportsmen, teachers, businessmen, political figures and men prominent in the communications fields. The trustees who founded this organization are: Winslow Ames, Professor Joseph Brown, Allison Danzig, Governor Foster Furcolo, Germain G. Glidden, Gordon L. Hough, Darwin P. Kingsley, Jr., Professor Robert J. H. Kiphuth and Stewart Klonis.

Also, Thomas H. Lineweaver, III, Stanley G. Mortimer, Jr., William Negley, Harry H. S. Phillips, Jr., Henry V. Poor, Murray Sargent, Jr., A. M. Sonnabend, Mansfield D. Sprague and Clifford S. Sutter.

Professor Paul J. Sachs is an informal advisor to the group.

Officers of the organization are: Mr. Glidden, President; Messrs. Kip-huth and Phillips, Vice Presidents; Mr. Hough, Secretary and Mr. Sargent, Treasurer.

The initial activities of the NAMOS will include the arrangement of exhibitions in conjunction with important sporting events, touring exhibitions of art directly related to sports, and making awards for outstanding works in the field. The ultimate plan is to build a museum where such works could be collected, so that they might be exhibited and lent to other institutions and organizations to be shown on appropriate occasions.

The first exhibit under the auspices of the National Art Museum of Sport has been planned for the winter of 1961.

PERUVIAN SURFERS IN RESCUE OF CRASHED PILOT OFF LIMA CLUB

Two well known Peruvian surfers who showed here in International competition last year were recent heroes in the rescue of a Peruvian Air Force pilot who crash landed his plane into the sea.

Pitty Block and Dr. Ricardo Fer-nandini, old friends of the Outrigger and charter members of the Waikiki Club in Lima, were the principles in the surfboard rescue operation.

According to news stories in both La Prensa and El Comercio, leading South American dailies, received here by Dr. Edmund Madden, the crash occurred about 1500 meters offshore of the Waikiki Club.

Block and Pernandini stroked the distance on "Tablos Hawaianas"—Hawaiian surfboards—to the wreckage.

Both surfers were credited with saving the life of Alferéz Manuel Montenegro, the pilot of the Air Force plane, with their quick action.
