spare. This is his first year in that race, having got much of his earlier training in the Star-Bulletin's series of swims. He is 15 years old. Ben Hollinger came in second. There were no entries from 1930 in the race.

Gladys Slaght was not satisfied with finishing second last year in the Girls' novice, so yesterday she showed her class by winning it. Her time was 14 min. 12 3-5 sec.

The race for boys under 18 consisted of boys who did not take part last year. James Hurd finished ahead of George Hogan in 23 min. 19 3-5 sec.

Gay Harris In Form

Gay Harris, veteran swimming luminary of a few years ago, grabbed off the race for men over 30 years by negotiating the distance in 25 min. 20 3-5 sec. Bob Askew finished next and Clifford Gessler, third. Gessler was the only one to finish last year in this race. He has been taking part in these Thanksgiving swims for the past 10 years.

For winning the men's open race, Jack May won the Harold Castle trophy. Ogla Clarke won The Star-Bulletin trophy by leading the field in the women's open race. James Hurd gets the Dawkins, Benny trophy by winning the boys under 18 race. Gladys Slaght received the A. H. Ford trophy for winning the girls' novice event. Trophies also were given the winners of the other events.
