

Outrigger Swim To Be Held This Morning

Flag Will Be Hoisted To Indicate Start of Big Race

The yearly Outrigger swim from the Castle surfs in front of the Elks Club to the Outrigger club will be staged this morning (Thursday). When the race gets underway at 9:15 o'clock, Knute Cottrel will hoist a flag at the Memorial pool to inform the spectators along the beach that the race is on.

A canoe will be anchored off the Moana Pier to indicate the finish.

Other races will also be held. Medals and cups are up for competition and as much honor is placed in the winning of the events, the swimmers are expected to "fight" hard to place among the first three.

A goodly number of swimmers have been practicing diligently to get into condition for the races and they all appear to be in first class condition for the grind.
