Contestants Training Hard For Annual Thanksgiving Day Meet

Gay Harris, chairman of the committee in charge of the annual open water Thanksgiving Day swimming meet, sponsored by the Outrigger Canoe club for Thursday morning, announced that only members of the organization will be eligible to compete. Over 35 contestants are busily training for the events.

Entries will be taken up to the starting gun to enable those who be concealed.

The arrangements for the tournament are being made by Gus Webbing, Henry Nye and Dean Lake.

his family in Hawaii. Whether he will return to Hawaii is a question he does not know himself.

Some sort of a sensational finish is in store for the fans in this affair, as Manuel is on a winning streak and Karasick does not want to leave with the stigma of a defeat against him.

In the semi-final, Fireman Yamashita and Mike Tsiowski, the latter, from Pearl Harbor, will have at each other. Swede Gilbertson and Johnny Potter will tangle in the curtain raiser.

make up their minds at the last minute to enter. There will be the usual six events. The first event will be the Castle swim for men. This is the feature or blue ribbon race of the day.

Other events, in their order, will be: Women's open, from public bath; boys under 18, from public bath; boys under 16, from Cunha's; girls novice, from Cunha's and men over 30, from public bath.

The Star-Bulletin has offered a cup to the winner of the women's open event. Cups will be awarded in each race. First three finishers in each race will get medals.
