

OUTRIGGER REGATTA ON THIS AFTERNOON

Seven Swimming Events Scheduled For Today—Surfing Races Tomorrow

The Outrigger Canoe Club swimming and surfing regatta will be continued this afternoon, commencing at two o'clock, and seven good events have been arranged. Last Sunday's surfing contests, which were postponed on account of the Queen's death, will be held this Sunday—if the surf is good.

Today's events will bring out almost every swimmer in the club, from the little huskies under twelve in the fifty yards to world champions. There will be no surf-riding or sailing races today, the afternoon being given over to these important swimming events.

Entries for today's races are as follows:

Today's Program

Duke Real Sport

It is conceded that Duke will win his races, but it will be interesting to see just how far he leaves his less experienced opponents in the one hundred yards and the quarter-mile.

Although there are medals up for first, second and third places, Duke has said that his place would not count, and that if he finished first, the winner's medal would go to the next to finish.

As an Outrigger Club member, Duke is perfectly eligible to compete for these prizes, but Duke is a real sport, and knows that this regatta is really to bring out talent among members who have not previously won prizes.

However, he was prevailed upon to enter the races for the sake of the sport, and anyone who has a mind to may see him in action this afternoon, as there will be no admission charge.

December 1 will wind up the big regatta, when a monster chowder and dance will be held on the club grounds.
