Twenty-four athletes have definitely signified that they will vie for the laurels and rich prizes of the annual five-mile A. C. A. marathon event scheduled for 9 a. m. on Memorial Day from the foot of the Aloha tower to the bridge on the Ala Wai.

Announcement to this effect was made this morning by Kan Heen Lum, secretary of the A. C. A. club, and Clarence Chang, chairman of the race committee.

Record Endangered

With such a fast field entered, the record is certain to take a spill. Frank Cerny holds the best time over this course, being 27 minutes 25 seconds made in 1927. Cerny is in the race again and so will be Jack A. Verrehardt, winner of the event last year and who came within 4-5 of a second of tying Cerny's record.

One of the veterans in the race will be Lieut. David M. Fowler, 27th Infantry athlete. Lieutenant Fowler was captain of the West Point cross-country team several years ago. His appearance in the five-mile event Thursday will be his first long distance race in Hawaii.

Lieutenant Fowler ran a neat mile in the A. A. U. meet and finished fourth, being clocked under five minutes.

From Mt. Hermon

Another veteran is Harry M. Stuart of the 11th Signal Co. Stuart ran on the Mt. Hermon school cross-country team of Mt. Hermon, aMss.

Of course, there will be the venerable A. P. Helbush, boss of the H. L. K. delivery. Helbush will attempt to show that his delivery service is as fast as he is in the race.

The committee announced that entries will be taken up to the time of the race and any athlete who desires to enter at the last moment may do so at the foot of the Aloha Tower at 8:30 a. m. Thursday. Numbers will be issued to all runners. The numbers will be pinned on front to assist the officials at the finish.

All runners are requested to report no later than 8:30 a. m. at the

Sol Metzger's FOR ALL GOLFERS Golf Lessons

By SOL METZGER

Purposely, ere showing you how Espinosa swings through crisply with his straight left arm to play his mashie approach, you were shown that a mashie should strike the ball first on the downswing and then go on through the turf and out after the ball. Al's reason for playing the ball off the center of his feet was given, so one would understand why the contact was made while the clubhead was still descending to the lowest point of its arc.

Now let us get the final picture of the shot. The ball must be lofted, or struck so it will rise high. In short, although contact is made with the blade descending, this contact must be made under the center of the ball. Quite a contradiction, seemingly, this business of striking a ball into the air though hitting it with a downward blow. Many golfers are confused by it. But let us analyze.

Note the detail sketch of Al's mashie striking the ball. Now we can see what is meant. Though the clubhead is still descending, the loft on its face causes it to strike the ball under its center, at the point "A." A firm left wrist here with all effort bent upon forcing the clubhead to go out after the ball on the line the ball has taken gains these results—direction and "stop." Let us next take up this question of "stop."
