A.A.U. Tries A New One On Pacific Coast

THE Pacific association branch of the A. A. U. is trying out a new feature in amateur athletic branches all over the country. The system is in reality that of government by a sports commissioner, similar to that adopted by organized baseball when it named Judge Landis to the post of dictator.

The Pacific Athletic Association has underwritten the venture and has engaged the services of George Davis, a well-known Pacific Coast newspaper man and an expert along the lines of sports promotion. His job is twofold. He is first and foremost the executive end of amateur athletics in the district, and secondly he is a promoter with full say as to the promotion of sports. The board of directors of the Pacific association believes that with proper promotion the district branch of the A. A. U. can be placed on a self-supporting footing. Davis will promote all forms of sport governed by the A. A. U., and his office is expected to make the various events pay, not only his own salary, but to remains to be seen who will win the contest.

Honolulu will be represented by the following players:

George McKinlay will referee the game.

The arrangements for the game, which were made by Fred Harrison, C. F. L. Walker and "Jimmie" Dunbar, include the laying off of the field and preparations for supplying the necessary goal nets and footballs. The sponsors of the game expect a large attendance at 3:30 today, when the visitors clash with our local players.

Announcement was made yesterday that E. O. Hall & Son has donated a cup to be put up as a trophy for the competition, which will be held in soccer between the Honolulu teams and the teams from the cruiser Capetown, which will visit this port this month.

Another trophy which will be put up for competition, this time for the Honolulu club championship, is the trophy supplied by the British war veterans.
