

Nevada Playing Locals In Next Variety of Game

---

Tonight the University of Nevada will once more come into the calcium in an athletic way. The visitors will take on the Outrigger Canoe Club basketball team at the National Guard Armory at 8 o'clock.

The match is an eventful one, since the visitors have with them the identical team that defeated the Stanford team, winners of the Pacific Coast Conference title last season, thus taking the honors in Pacific Coast basketball. Three members of the Nevada team, Buckman, Bradshaw and White, were picked as All Nevada-California conference team members. The remainder of the squad, Foster, Reed, Middleton and Martin are fast and furious players of exceptionally ability.

Outrigger's team will probably be chosen from among the following men: Biven, Campbell, Bittle, Fuller, Langenstein, and Bailey. The surfriders were runners up in the A. A. U. basketball league last year, being nosed out of first place by no less team than the National Guard five, which won the title in both the A. A. U. league and the Service League.

National Guard will play the Nevadans tomorrow night.

The seating arrangements will be the same as those had for the first Honolulu Service Club smoker.