

President G. H. Tuttle of the Outrigger Canoe Club objected to an amusement pier on Waikiki beach, near the Moana hotel, on the ground that it would menace the bathing and surfing developed at the club. Several others protested to the board of supervisors also, while some argued that it should be built so more could be done for tourists.