

FROM Los Angeles comes word that Duke Kahanamoku is going to attempt the long distance swim from Catalina Island to the mainland, but will not be a competitor for the $25,000 purse put up by Bill Wrigley because by so doing it would professionalize him, and the Duke declares emphatically that he is going to present himself as a candidate for the next Olympic team and welcomes another crack at Johnny Weismuller. The Olympic games mean more to Duke Kahanamoku than half a dozen Catalina swims.
