

FILMS OF RACIAL HARMONY

The films will close the program. These pictures will tell the story of how the races in Hawaii work together for community interests. First will be shown a series of pictures telling the story of the Outrigger Canoe club of 21 years ago when Hawaiian and Hao'le boys started the club at Waikiki with a Native Hawaiian grass hut as a bath house, a club that now numbers 2000 members. Then will continue the story of the Hands-around-the-Pacific club out of which grew the Pan-Pacific Union, its pictorial conferences of peoples of all races and its remarkable historic pageants. About 30 organizations affiliated with the movement will have tables of eight at the lunch today.
