

OLYMPIC TRIALS SERVE AS MAGNET TO GET 'EM OUT

Hawaii's Best Natators Will Compete in Three Days' Carnival at Memorial Pool; Crabbe, Kealoha, Woodd, Miss Wehseleau, Others on Lists

HAWAII'S best swimmers have answered the call for the first big water carnival of the year, which will be staged in Waikiki Memorial pool this week, a three nights' affair, starting Thursday with an attractive card that includes the events of the Swanzy cup, annual compet for women.

The carnival also includes all of the events to be staged at the Olympic games in Amsterdam, and upon the showing made by local swimmers will depend their fitness for members of the Hawaiian team that will go to the mainland next month and compete in the trials for the American Olympic team. More than 150 swimmers have entered.

Such well-known natators as Warren Kealoha, Buster Crabbe, John Woodd, Mariechen Wehseleau and Lily Jowmer May are entered in events for which they are best suited. There are some lesser lights who may prove to be dark horses, and it is this uncertainty that makes the carnival a mighty attractive affair and one that should draw big crowds to the Memorial pool.

TO DEFRAY EXPENSES

The receipts for the meet will go toward defraying the expenses of the Hawaiian swimmers to the mainland, and for that reason it is hoped that Honoluluans will give the affair their support.

Guy Harris, in charge of the arrangements, announced that the entries included swimmers from every local organization with the exception of Palama Settlement, and that because they failed to comply with the printed request on the official entry blank that entries must be in no later than 7 o'clock Friday night, April 13, the Palama swimmers would not be eligible to compete.

The order of events and names of the officials have already been announced through the columns of The Advertiser. Following are the entries:
