A star-spangled voice for the 4th of July

Guido Salmaggi, (see page one) has just returned from singing engagements at major league ball parks around the country, and will celebrate the 4th of July festivities in Honolulu by singing the National Anthem at three different functions during the day.

He will start out the 4th singing on the Michael

Perry-Larry Price radio show on KSSK at 7 am, then on at Waikiki Beach in front of the Moana Hotel at 8 am for the Outrigger Canoe Club Macfarland Regatta Race, and finally in front of the Water Falls in the Great Hall of the Hyatt Regency Waikiki Hotel at 6 pm, where Salmaggi is known as "The Boss" at the popular Spats Restaurant-Disco. He appears there a few nights a week thanks to Hyatt General Manager Eberhard Linke — but doesn't sing there he just greets his friends and diners who enjoy eating good Italian food.

Guido has sung the "Anthem" in Shea Stadium in N.Y., Atlanta-Fulton Stadium in Atlanta, Comiskey Park in Chicago, Dodger Stadium in Los Angeles and in San Francisco's Candlestick Park. His recent Dodger Stadium performance came before 50,000 fans and a national television audience.

"I'm certain that all those people didn't come to hear me because they were giving away free T-shirts that night," laughs Salmaggi, a Honolulu resident for more than 30 years. He has one daughter, Linda, who lives in Kahala.

"I don't care whether it's 50,000 at Dodger Stadium or a Little League game with about 100 mothers and fathers," he adds "I get a bang out of singing the Star Spangled Banner, even if it is a tough song to sing, I consider it a privilege and also consider myself lucky to be an American — I especially like doing it at Rainbow Stadium at the University of Hawaii because lots of my old friends are there."

As a young man in New York City, he sang the National Anthem at Ebbets Field (Brooklyn Dodgers) the Polo Grounds (N.Y. Giants) and at Yankee Stadium (N.Y. Yankees). He first started doing the Anthem in 1937.

Salmaggi has sung for nine presidents, starting with Franklin D. Roosevelt, during World War II in Honolulu where he was stationed as a draftsman in the army. The list includes: Harry Truman, Dwight Eisenhower, Richard Nixon, John Kennedy, Lyndon Johnson, Jimmy Carter, Gerald Ford, Ronald Reagan and a pending engagement to do it for President George Bush. A date that Congresswoman Patricia Saiki is working on. When this happens - I guess I'll call it a day.

"I've stopped counting the times I've sung the Anthem but it runs well into the thousands - and so far, I've never forgotten the words. "I told my wife Maria, to make me quit if ever that happened." He says.

Guido Salmaggi, recently retired as the Italian Vice Consul to the State of Hawaii, a post he has held for more than 20 years. He had to resign because of Italy's mandatory retirement law for government representatives but was happy to say that he was a unanimously voted in as a lifetime Member Emeritus of the Consular Corps of Hawaii which represents 34 different countries.

One of the biggest highlights of his life occurred recently when he was knighted by the Italian Government for his long dedicated service to Italy as its representative in Hawaii.

Salmaggi was made a "Commendatore di primo grado" at a reception in San Francisco's Italian Consulate General. The award was made by Francesco Cossiga, President of Italy.

A Hawaii team won the first national volleyball championship for boys 12 and under yesterday, overwhelming the 20-team field in the inaugural National AAU Championships at Lisle, Ill.

The three-day tournament took place at Illinois Benedictine College in a suburb of Chicago. Hawaii's team, sponsored by Outrigger Canoe Club and coached by Tony Crabb, won all nine of its matches, defeating Warren, N.J. in the final. OCC won 16 of its 18 games.

The team began training in January. "They did fabulous," Crabb said. "All nine boys played great. It was really a terrific win for these kids."

DON CHAPMAN ...

GOING FOURTH: Here's a holiday haiku for our country's 214th birthday. It's a real poem of the '90s, composed in traffic on the H-1: Stars, stripes, palm trees high Waving in an azure sky Even grown men cry □□□

PATRIOTISM is easy to come by on the Fourth of July. And I love the red-white-and-blue bunting, hearing Guido Salmaggi sing the "Star-Spangled Banner," the Walter Macfarlane Outrigger Canoe Regatta at Waikiki, the fireworks, and hearing Ray Charles sing "America the Beautiful" as much as the next guy. Heck, I love the Fourth of July almost as much as Christmas. . . . But this year, we have something for which we can be especially proud as Americans. And it says more about us as a people than anything else I can think of. Let's start with a question: Name the one country in the world that Americans loathe more than any other? The country that, if the earth opened up and swallowed it lock, stock and extremists, we would celebrate long and loud? Iran, right? That's what I would have guessed until a couple of weeks ago. So what happens? Iran is devastated by an earthquake. And how do we Americans respond? By sending planeloads of food and medical supplies to the people of Iran who survived the tragedy! Is this a great country? You bet it is, big in every way. □□□

Long may she fly.

I ALSO BELIEVE that the pride Hawaii folks have in their own ethnic background and their respect and enjoyment of their neighbors' cultures provide nothing less than the true path to world peace. I personally like seeing haoles at bon dances. I like seeing Japanese people dancing hula. I like seeing Hawaiian people in Chinatown for Chinese New Year. And just about everybody likes Thai food. . . . The point here is that the way we live in Hawaii is just about the best working model for world peace possible. At least, it's a good place to start. Any study of peace should begin here. And it should pay particular attention to all of our ethnic humor, the stuff that Frank DeLima has turned into a career. The ability to laugh at ourselves is important. . . . I know, I know — we're not perfect. There are the gangs, which breed paranoia and contempt, a dangerous combination. There are still families where a girl had better not bring home a boy of another race to meet the folks, or vice versa. There will always be a few who live in ignorant mistrust, twisted by insecurity and fear of the unknown. But those are in the minority. On the whole, Hawaii is a shining microcosm of American brotherhood — people with names as wonderfully diverse as O'Reilly, Ornellas, Kealoha, MacRae, Matsuo, Chapman, Chang, Tomimbang, Goldstein, Noga, Nguyen — every one a good American name. . . . With ethnic violence exploding around the world, from the provinces of the Soviet Union to Northern Ireland, from South Africa to the Middle East, I take heart in this wonderful spirit we share called "aloha." □□□

WITH THAT in mind, here's another verse for "America the Beautiful." I like to imagine Gabby Pahinui singing it: O beautiful for turquoise sea for morning sun serene with lush green mountain majesty above the fruited trees Hawaii nei, Hawaii nei God shed His grace on you and crowned your good with brotherhood so that there's no hu-hu
