From Ho to Leed, it's home for the holidays

By Wayne Harada
Advertiser Entertainment Editor

BILL Conrad will enjoy a quiet Christmas dinner with friends at the Outrigger Canoe Club.

And goolly, it's snow biz for Jim Nabors, who's in Whitefish, Mont.

Jay Larrin will idle in his PJs all day.

Don Ho will be on stage Christmas night, as will Danny Kaleikini. Frank DeLima has a show Christmas Eve but gets to see his family afterward.

Karen Keawehewa'i will be manning the battle stations with her family (more on her later).

When it comes to the yuletide, entertainers are much like everyone else; they prize the time with their loved ones and maintain their own long-standing Christmas habits. For some, it's work as usual; for others, like the Society of Seven, it's a vacation, the first time in more than 20 years where we don't have to rush to work after Christmas dinner. It's the one time of the year that I especially enjoy spending with my wife, son (home from college) and mother-in-law. We'll go to Christmas Eve Mass, followed by a big breakfast. I look forward to that and turkey dinner on Christmas night.

Here's the scoop on Celebrity Christmas, 1989:

Don Ho: "Christmas is a time for kids. I enjoy watching mine, as well as the grandchildren, and all that joy. We open presents Christmas morning. This year, my vacation ends Christmas Night. I have a show to do."

Danny Kaleikini: "I'm working on the Eve and on the Day, because there are so many malihinis here for the holidays — a blessing for those of us who rely on the business. But I will open Christmas presents with the family on Christmas morning and spend time with my new grandson, one white buggah named Hulale ("shining star"), who is my new pride and joy and a future golfer."

Frank DeLima: "On Christmas Eve, I'm going to midnight Mass after my show. Then it's home for chicken soup and Portuguese sweet bread, which I'm thinking of making. I'll open up presents after church. On Christmas Day, I save delivery of presents for all my grandchildren here — I have 13 — and at night, it will be dinner with my family and my manager's family."

Bill Conrad: "Filming on 'Jake and the Fatman' is finished for the holidays, so I'll try to catch up with some of my favorite shows this week and next: Frank DeLima, Society of Seven, Freddie Morris, Don Ho, Jimmy Borges, Danny Kaleikini.

On Christmas night, Tippy and I and our house guests will have dinner at the Outrigger Canoe Club with Kimmo and Betsy McVay and Kinau Wilder.

Tony Ruivivar of the Society of Seven: "We're off on Christmas Eve, since it's a Sunday, and we've begged for Christmas night off, too, so we'll enjoy a mini-vacation, the first time in more than 20 years where we don't have to rush to work after Christmas dinner. It's the one time of the year that I especially enjoy spending with my wife, son (home from college) and mother-in-law. We'll go to Christmas Eve Mass, followed by a big breakfast. I look forward to that and turkey dinner on Christmas night."

Jay Larrin: "I'll stay in my pajamas all day, the puk-kind, then talk to my friends long distance and play the Christmas music. I haven't had time to enjoy. I act like an 11-year-old kid, opening presents, enjoying the tree, lighting the candles and smelling the incense and potpourri. I'll also write down some memories of Christmas past and play with Little One Raven Prince of the Alaskan Snow Moon, my miniature Pinscher I got in Alaska, whose name came while I was at the Juneau Airport."

Melveen Leed: "I perform on Christmas Eve, but not Christmas night, which is family time. I'll stay home, cook up a nice dinner. On Christmas Day, though, I See Celebrating, B-2 perform at the Aloha Bowl half-time show with Crystal Gayle."

Maestro and Freddie of New Generation: "Being that the group is on the verge of releasing something nationally in February, we'll be working through the holidays, writing as well as rehearsing," said Maestro. "In order to get what we want, we have to put in the time and effort. But we will take a break on Christmas Eve and Christmas Day to spend time with our families." And Freddie: "There's a lot of work at holiday time, but we make time for our families."

Jim Nabors: "He's in the midst of snow at his home in Montana," said secretary Judy Murata. "So he'll have a white Christmas."

Eddie Kamae of the Sons of Hawaii: "We get together with the boys and eat, reminisce about the good times we've had during the year."

Karen Keawehewa'i: "We'll spend it at home, so we don't get robbed. Last year, we got taken. I have enough bodies to man every window and door. I'm serious."

Ben Wood, who sold the Star-Bulletin in downtown Honolulu during World War II, writes of people, places and things in the Today Section every Sunday.
