SANFORD OUT WITH A NEW GRID STUNT

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J.—Rutgers College, the home of Foster Sanford's multiple kick of five year's ago, the scene last year of Sanford's coaching tower—the crow's nest—now is to have another typical Sanford novelty. Managerial candidates on the football squad will be garbed in canvas jumpers of distinctive colors. It seems that Sanford has tired of trying to find a freshman or a sophomore who merely wears a little tag. So the freshman managers are to be clad in blue jumpers, coat and trousers, and the sophomore assistants in white jumpers.

coming down for the purpose of being referee. He has been referee of swimming meets in Hawaii for many years and the first one he missed was the one in the Punahou tank when the judges and timers disagreed as to the winner of the race between Wllessmuller and Warren Kealoha.

The trials will be held on the first night and there will be regular racing on Tuesday and Wednesday nights.

The first night the general admission price will be 75 cents for the entire house. The other nights the admission will run 50 cents, 99 cents and $1.50.
