LANE MAY CRASH SOME OF THESE SWIM MARKS

St. Mary's Boy Who Is To Swim In Y.M.C.A. Affair Is Speeding; Janice Lovett Being Watched Closely

INTENSE interest is being manifested in local swimming circles as to what Clarence Lane's showing will be in the Y. M. C. A. Swimming Meet next Thursday and Saturday. It is possible that Lane may startle the local swim world with some of his performances.

At practice the St. Mary's man has negotiated the half century at the "Y" tank in considerably less than 24 seconds, which is a remarkable performance even in Hawaii.

He has bested Pua Kealoha a number of times, and traveled 50 yards in 24 seconds flat one day when he was tired. Lane had dropped out of the thoughts of the local swimming world, due to his absence on the mainland, but there is considerable possibility that he may be injected as an important factor in the coming October meet.

He has kept in excellent condition while on the mainland, and kept his work consistently fast on the coast courses. What he can do in the way of dethroning local talent is of course more or less speculative, but it is quite probable that he will do as well as he has been doing in practice swims.

Girl Star

Another sensation that is likely to be sprung at the coming meet may be the performances of Janice Lovett in the girl's swimming events. The Outrigger girl has flown out of her class and is now assailing the pedestal of Mariechen Wehselau in the open events.

She and Constance Davis, another of "Dad" Center's prodigies, will swim against Helen Moses and Mariechen Wehselau in the century for women and the furlong.

It is quite doubtful whether she can defeat either Miss Moses or Miss Wehselau. Both are older and more powerful swimmers; but Miss Lovett has been traveling in practice at a clip which will make the two veteran performers step lively to retain their supremacy.

Dives Good

The diving should prove an interesting contest in the men's events. Foley and Harvey Smith will be pitted for the first time against each other, and a prediction, made by Victory Ligda, their coach, earlier in the week, seems likely of fulfillment.

Smith has been working out daily on the "Y" springboard, and is in better form than ever. Foley is in top form, and the contest between them should bring out some sensational diving talent. Bouldin Burbank, Bill Jones and Makinney will be entered from the Outrigger Club, but Jones is the only one who is at all likely to figure in the results.

Entries for the meet may be made until this evening, as the time limit was extended to permit more athletes to enter in the open events. In some cases only two are entered, and for this reason the time has been extended.

Trials for Thursday night's swims will be held next Wednesday, and on Friday the trials for the Saturday night events will be held. Trials will be principally in the service events, as there is a large field in competition.

In the open events the field is narrowed down to the aces of Hawaii's swimming talent. The meet will afford an excellent chance for observation of those who will compete in the October meet in the harbor.

Erickson Will Be Grid Coach

Football at Fort De Russy

Fort De Russy is on the war path and will be out for blood the rest of the season, because they were nosed out in baseball for the Sector pennant. Lieut. Erickson, who was a regular member on De Russy football team last year, will coach the Wnikiki soldiers.

With football approaching Fort De Russy will be in full swing next Monday, according to Coach Erickson who will have some 50 men available when the football season starts. Some of last year's regulars who will be in the lineup are Fisher, tackle; Williams, Young, Draper and Higgins.

Erickson will put his squad of huskies through some light workouts for the next three weeks. They will be under strict attention during the season.
