Greatest Woman Classic In Sport History to Be Furnished at Big Meet

World's Fastest Women Swimmers To Be Seen In Action Here; Lillie Bowmer Menacing Champions

THE eyes of the sporting world will be momentarily focused on Hawaii on Thursday and Saturday nights, October 11 and 13, when the premier position in the world of women aquatic athletes will be fought out in a triangular contest which will go down in the annals of sports as decisively as the battle of Waterloo in world history.

Those who thought Lillie Bowmer, Outrigger star who recently visited the mainland, would be unable to compete with her clubmate Mariechen Wehselau, and Gertrude Ederle of New York, because of lack of conditioning, are due for the surprise of their lives.

"Bill" Bowmer is cutting the water in practice with speed that is going to make "Squeeky" Wehselau and Miss Ederle break records to keep their laurels. Miss Bowmer is at present given credit of having traveled faster in water than any other woman swimmer, although her record is not official. Her recent efforts in local waters indicate that that race, in which she made the half century in :28 flat, was not a mere flash.

Gertrude Ederle has been working out here, but has not attempted any speed. She is getting used to Hawaiian water, as that will be her main handicap in the big meet, which is being held in open water in Honolulu harbor.

MIDDLE DISTANCES

For fans who are nuxious to see Miss Ederle at her best, the 300 meters swim on Saturday night will be the big event. In this event Miss Ederle will be swimming the distance in which she is recognized world champion. While she is also figured as an ace in the 100 meters and 100 yards swims, her greatest talent is in the middle distances and longer swims. She holds every record from the furlong up to the mile in the world's swimming world, having decisively defeated the world's best swimmers in their respective distances.

The eyes of Hawaii, however, will be turned on the 100 meters women's open swim, which will be staged on Saturday night. In this race Mariechen Wehselau, Lillie Bowmer, Helen Moses and Miss Ederle will fight out one of the greatest battles in swimming history, for this quartet represents the world's fastest women's swimming talent.

The fight between Miss Wehselau and Miss Ederle was expected to furnish the big kick of the meet, but Lillie Bowmer's sudden splurge into the limelight will give an added zest to the big race.

DIFFERENT STYLES

The girls all swim different styles, although Miss Wehselau and Miss Ederle are most alike. "Squeeky" has a powerful stroke and good leg action, and relies mostly on her shoulder muscles, taking a short stroke that hits the water more to side than the average swimmer. Her body rolls very little in changing strokes.

Miss Ederle swims a good deal like Johnny Weismuller, with a powerful, fast crawl stroke with her shoulders rising above the surface in the effort. Her stroke is exceptionally powerful, clean, and big but longer than Miss Wehselau's.

Lillie Bowmer has a stroke which is probably the most capable of any limited development of any of them. She swims more like a boy than the average girl, with an extended and powerful leg action. She churns the water to a foaming wake behind her as she travels through the waves. She is less heavily built than either of the other two, and has made faster time than any of them.

THE VETERAN

Helen Moses is the veteran of the crowd. She made the last Olympic team, and was then reckoned among the world's foremost women swimmers. She dropped off a bit after the Olympics, but has recently returned, and is giving Mariechen a hard rub in the longer distances. She has more endurance than any other local swimmer, and could probably give Miss Ederle a hard fight in the longer swims.

She swims a slow, powerful stroke, which carries her through the water nearly as fast as the quick strokes of the natural swimmers, but which seems almost tireless, and she is usually fresh at the end of the race.

Army Defeats Kauai Combine In Fast Polo

First Of Schofield Sports Programs Successful

The Schofield Gold Oaks defeated the Kauai Junior polo combination at Schofield yesterday by a score of 9 to 2, in a game featured by hard riding and fast playing by both teams, despite the big margin for the winners.

The game was almost an individual performance between Heffner of Kauai and Sharp of Schofield. Time and again the fast Kauai nags would break away, only to be checked by the Schofield defense. Sharp's work at offense was equally spectacular.

The score by chukkurs:

1st chukkur—Kauai 1, Schofield 1.
2nd chukkur—Kauai 0, Schofield 2.
3rd chukkur—Kauai 0, Schofield 0.
4th chukkur—Kauai 0, Schofield 3.
5th chukkur—Kauai 0, Schofield 1.
6th chukkur—Kauai 1, Schofield 1.

THE GAME

Kauai opened when Heffner sent a neat shot through the pillars after a hard ride down the field. Sharp replied with a goal, and a minute later shot one to Wolfe who scored.

The next chukkur saw the same combination work effectively, and then Kauai rallied in the third, and held the Oahu by hard riding and careful defense. Sharp shot one to Hunter in the fourth, and Wolfe gave Hunter another a moment later, both going for scores.

In the last period Heffner broke away and time and again menaced the Schofield goal, but was checked by Sharp. Kuhlman finally broke away with the ball and sent it spinning through the pillars, and Hanson retaliated with a final goal of the day a few seconds later.
