HERE ARE LOCAL SWIMMERS DUE FOR PARIS TRIP

Bill Harris May Be Added And Is Reported to Be Considering Coming Back

Twenty island mermen and mermaids were nominated by the Hawaiian A. A. U. for the American swimming team to go to the Olympic games in Paris next year. These names have been submitted to the national body for consideration. It is up to the national body to accept or reject, and the matter is now out of the hands of the local association.

The Outrigger relay team, holding the record, was recommended in a body. The team includes Mariechen Wehselau, Lillie Bowmer, Helen Moses and Janice Lovett. Christine Smoot, Outrigger diver, was the only other girl recommended.

Among the men swimmers recommended were Warren Kealoha, Pua Kealoha, Sam Kahanamoku, W. Kirschbaum, Charles Pung and Henry Luning.

The divers suggested included James L. Foley, Jeff Wilcox, K. M. Makinney, Harvey Smith and Lewis W. Call.

For the water polo team, Kenneth ("Kammy") Ross and Walter Grace have been suggested.

Bill Harris, member of the last Olympic team and now in Manila, may also be added. It is reported he is seriously considering moving back to Hawaii.
