

SIX TEAMS SURE AND MAYBE MORE FOR WATER POLO

Norman Ross To Assist and Coach Island Poloists In Their Round Robin Clash

THE game of water polo is stepping right up into the front ranks of island sports these days, and what with Norman Ross, himself a celebrated water poloist, assisting and coaching, Hawaii may be turning out some real water polo stars one of these days. Norman Ross has seen some of the boys play, and declares that with a little training there is enough material here to develop a team that will give any of them on the mainland a battle for honors, and Norman ought to know, since he was a member of the Illinois Athletic club polo team when it held the American title.

Six teams are certain for the local league. They are the Outrigger Canoe club, Hui Makani, Y. M. C. A., Army, Navy and University of Hawaii. The Hui Nalu may also enter.

Committee

A committee consisting of Lieut. Col. H. L. Landers, Milo Vanek, Bert Tarleton, L. F. Leo and Norman Ross has been appointed to proceed with the formation of the league, which plans to play a round robin series shortly.

Development of water polo stars will be carried on in connection with the development of swimmers for the national trials which will be held in Indianapolis the first week of June. To develop local swimming material there will be a tank meet once a month, the first being held on January 25 by the Women's Auxiliary.
