

Bill Harris, member of the Hawaiian and American Olympic swimming teams of 1920, has been heard from. Every now and again comes an echo from Manila, where Bill is residing with his Australian wife, to the effect that he is still swimming.

"Don't judge me by the time made in the recent meet," writes Bill, regarding some affair in which he took part for the Columbia Club.

"I did the 40 yards in :18.2, the century in :54.2 and 220 yards in 2:19.3 just before the championships and the reason the tourney races are in such slow time is that the program was all staged in two days and I had to swim in too many events in each day.

"Best regards to all the beach-combers of the Outriggers Canoe Club."
