

Picturesque Outrigger Club Near Dissolution Through Poverty

By RUSSELL L. RICHARDS

More than 100 years ago, Kamehameha the Great landed at Waikiki beach with his mighty fleet of invading war canoes, on the very ground where the Outrigger Canoe Club stands. It is entirely fitting and proper that this historic ground should be the home of ancient Hawaiian water sports and activities.

In searching the files of The Advertiser, we come across the following excerpts which appeared in that paper on Sunday, May 15, 1910, fourteen years ago today.

"The Outrigger Canoe Club organized and elected officers on May 2, 1908, but it was not until the 19th that leases were signed that gave the club a house and an acre and a half of
