

The two brothers, SPENCER F. WEAVER, JR. and CLIFF TON S. WEAVER, have added another beautiful restaurant to the Spencecliff Corporation chain. Trader Vic's, located in the International Market Place, is now open for dinners.

SPENCER WEAVER

CLIFF WEAVER

It's Polynesian and it's picturesque. At the entrance, a beautiful lady greets customers. It's the Hawaiian Maiden, a historical ship's figure-head. She belonged to the brigantine, Hawaii, that plied the waters between the West Coast and Honolulu--about 1880.

CLIFF, who is vice president, quality control for Spencecliff, said he knows of only three figureheads in the world that are Hawaiian, and the one at Trader Vic's is the biggest.

"It's rare, rare," he said.

It has been at the Bishop Museum for a year and a half and it took four months for restoration by the curator of exhibits at the museum and by Mitch Mitchell. Mitch, the artist, helped with the painting.

Five or six layers of old paint were peeled to get down to the original. It is one piece of wood, weighing about 350 pounds and measuring about seven feet in height.

When the WEAVERS first acquired it, it looked like a piece of driftwood with patches of paint. It was soaked in alcohol in a corrugated van. Holes were drilled to spurt in fluid to strengthen the fibre.

It took about six to eight gallons of the fluid, costing $50 a gallon.

By the time the Hawaiian Maiden was restored, total cost was $10,000.

"I wouldn't sell it for $10,000," said CLIFF. He tried to acquire it for years and he finally persuaded CHARLIE McWAYNE, JR., of McWayne Marine Supply to sell.

On the pre-opening of Trader Vic's Monday night, the Hawaiian Maiden was adorned with a maile lei. Such a lei is reserved for Hawaiian alii (royalty).

Nearby the Hawaiian Maiden is a Fijian warrior, an ancestor worship image from New Guinea, carved from a single tree. That is a find by TAVANA. Next to it is a Polynesian styled bench, carved by TAVANA from a coconut tree.

R. ALEXANDER ANDERSON, composer of "Lovely Hula Hands" and many other popular Island songs, wrote "Mr. Pacific" in honor of WILLIAM J. MULLAHEY for an aloha luncheon Monday at the Outrigger Canoe Club.

It was a tribute to BILL, who has just retired as Pan Am's director, Hawaii and Central and South Pacific. He left for New York Tuesday.

His wife BOBBIE watched friends pile leis on BILL. There were many maile leis (worn by alii) and many pansy leis (worn by Hawaii's paniolos or cowboys).

The lunch started by BILL POPE, a friend of MULLAHEY for 35 years, was to be a surprise. By the time the 300 friends were informed, BILL MULLAHEY was quite aware of it.

Among guests was retired Pan Am chairman HAROLD E. GRAY.

The luncheon was a tribute filled with fond alohas for a man, who is knowledgeable about Hawaii and the Pacific. He will be a Pan Am consultant for at least a year.

He and his wife BOBBIE will spend more time on their hobby -- travel.

Note to ERNIE ALBRECHT, Pan Am's director of sales, Hawaii: First, congratulations to you for being a first-time grandfather. Second, apology to you for mis-spelling "stork" in a previous column.

Your pr gal, THELMA OLIVAL called attention to it -- could always blame the back shop for a typo for typing "stock" instead of "stork."

Anyway, may the stork visit you often but not when you are on an African safari, and may your Wall Street stocks soar skyward often.

While hunting wild elephants in Kenya, Africa, ERNIE'S daughter BONNIE WILSON gifted the family with a seven pound, 15 ounce son.

Honolulu Sparks '4th' Festivities

By LORETTA ROBINSON

Honolulu will be alive with 4th of July Celebrations this year -- several parades, at least one official luau, fireworks displays, two sailboat regattas, the annual Walter J. Macfarlane Memorial Regatta and the last weekend of the 50th State Fair.

To further celebrate America's Independence Day, Honolulu's Retail Board has declared an official holiday, closing banks and some businesses. Most stores will be open Friday but closed on Saturday.

Banks will be open Thursday until 6 p.m. to make up for Friday's closing.

Both the New York and Honolulu Stock Exchanges will be closed Friday.

City-subsidized buses on the Windward and the Wahiawa-Kahuku-Kaneohe lines will run on holiday schedules Friday. There will be no bus service on the Waianae Coast either day and Saturday there will be no city-subsidized bus service.

Hawaii Visitors Bureau will be closed half days on July 3 and 4. On those two dates, they will be open only until noon.

In Honolulu, the Executive 100 Club is planning a parade to honor the flag. No banners or signs, only flags will be carried.

The Royal Hawaiian Band and the Fleet Marine Force Drum and Bugle Corps will be among them.

They will start from Fort DeRussy at 10:30 a.m. and march to Kapiolani Park.

Rolling instead of marching, the Oahu Bikeways Council is expecting about 200 cyclists to participate in a parade which will start at 10:30 a.m. Saturday at Puuloa Playground, follow Kuhina and Aho-na Streets and circle back to Puuloa Playground.

The Waialua Independence Day parade will begin at Wilson Crossing at 9 a.m. and proceed along Kamehameha Highway to Haleiwa Beach Park. A flag-raising ceremony will be held there at 2 p.m.

Along Kailua Beach Park, between 1 and 6 p.m., there will be a variety of entertainment offered. From 8 to 9 p.m., a fireworks display will be set off on 'Flat Island.'

Kailua's Independence Day Parade will close Kainalu Drive from Kainalu Elementary School to Kailua Recreation Center while the parade lasts. They will start at 9:30 a.m.

Celebrating seaside, the Walter J. MacFarlane Memorial Regatta, the biggest canoe races of the year, will be held at Waikiki Beach. Outrigger Canoe Club is sponsoring the events under the auspices of the Hawaiian Canoe Racing Association.

The course begins at the beach fronting Moana Hotel and extends one half mile seaward.

Ten o'clock Saturday is starting time. The races will last three to five hours, depending on surf conditions.

Gaylord Dillingham Memorial Regatta will sail from Waikiki Yacht Club at 8:20 a.m. Friday, June 3. Boats entered will be made up of ocean-going vessels Cal 20 size and up. They will sail to Kaneohe Yacht Club.

On return trip to Waikiki Yacht Club, Saturday, July 4, many of the same boats will be entered in the Kaneohe Off-Shore Invitational Regatta. Warning time for that race is 12:50 p.m.

For additional information on the races call: Kaneohe Yacht Club, 247-4121.

A luau for the 4th will be held on the grounds of St. Andrews Cathedral, Queen and Beretania Streets. Laymen of the Episcopal church have striven to make it as traditionally Hawaiian as possible.

Kalua pig, poi, chicken luau, lomi lomi salmon, raw fish, opih, squid, yams, pineapple, haupia, cake and punch will be served.

Hawaiian music, songs and dances will be presented at each sitting: 2 p.m., 3:15 p.m. and 4:30 p.m. Take out orders will be prepared from noon to 4 p.m.

Officially named the Hoolaulea Luau, it is being sponsored by Episcopal Churches in Hawaii to honor the Right Rev. E. Lani Hanchett, Bishop of Hawaii, and Mrs. Hanchett.

Contributions are $3 per adult, $2 for children under 12. Tickets may be ordered in advance by calling 536-7619 or 923-5313. All proceeds will go to the Bishop's Discretionary Fund.

Fireworks will be heard all over the city Saturday night. One of the official locations is at Schofield Barracks, Lightning Field at 8 p.m. That display will be preceded by a concert by the U. S. Army Pacific Band. The public is invited.

The 50th State Fair will, of course, have a display and celebration of its own.

HRA BOARD MEMBERS--The annual dinner meeting of the Hawaii Restaurant Association was held recently at the Ala Moana Banquet Hall, Ala Moana Center. New board members are from left, Bob Takata, owner of Salad Bowl; Peter Van Dorn, general manager of Outrigger Canoe Club; Edward Doty, owner of Doty Distributors, and Fred (Tosh) Kaneshiro, Columbia Inn major domo. Bob Takata is the new HRA treasurer.
