fashions for the traveler

Travel is the name of the game that will highlight the globe-hopping Grasshoppers' benefit fashion dinner tomorrow at the Outrigger Canoe Club for members and guests. This smashing travel ensemble from the Hibiscus Boutique in black and oyster white wool jersey can be combined and re-combined in many ways to make several chic travel ensembles. Proceeds from the dinner will help diabetic children go to summer camp. Tickets may be arranged for by calling Mary Delpech, 373-1097.

Paul C. Bragg, the 88-year-old health adviser who still travels with his 250-pound barbells and 10 cases of distilled water, returned with his daughter, Patricia, to their apartment at the Ilikai Hotel.

They have received a warm Hawaiian welcome from friends who have given summer parties for them.

Mrs. Neal S. Blaisdell was hostess at a luncheon at Waialae Country Club, and Mrs. Duke Kahanamoku gave a dinner for the Braggs at the Outrigger Canoe Club.

Summer wedding

Stephanie Berger and her fiance, William S. Chillingworth, have turned down all suggestions to leave their wedding Monday under an archway of crossed tennis rackets, but tennis has played an important role in their courtship.

Stephanie, who held the State high school girls' singles championship during her last two years at St. Andrew's Priory and frequently wins club tournaments here, and Yama, which is what everybody calls William S. Chillingworth, play more tennis than the Nixon cabinet does.

Their wedding will take place Monday at Memorial Chapel of St. Andrew's Cathedral, and will be followed by a reception at the Outrigger Canoe Club.

Stephanie is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Berger, and Yama is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William R. Chillingworth of Hilo. The Chillingworth clan and family friends plan to come from Hawaii this weekend for the wedding. Maile from Kona will be part of their luggage, to be used at the wedding.

The bride's sister, Tina, will be her maid of honor, and the bridegroom's younger sisters, Wanda and Maggie Chillingworth, will be the bridesmaids.

Harry Chillingworth, nicknamed "Puna," will be his brother's best man.

Mrs. Ralph Dobbins was recently hostess at a luncheon shower for Stephanie, and Mrs. Alfred Franco Jr. gave a dessert shower at her home on Portlock Road.

Dinner parties for the young couple have included those given by Mr. and Mrs. Seymour Shingle and Mr. and Mrs. Selden Chillingworth. Mr. and Mrs. Richard Gray will entertain at a party for both families Sunday night.

Out of town guests at the wedding will include the bride's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Furtado, and the bridegroom's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. William Sterns, all of Hilo, and the bridegroom's godmother, Mrs. Roxanna McKenzie of Palo Alto, Calif.

Also expected are several of Stephanie's Delta Gamma Sorority sisters from the University of Southern California.

SCENE AT THE Outrigger Canoe Club: Harold Sullivan introducing Marty Crail and Thad Brooks, both former Hollywood photographers. Finally they remembered that they had worked together on "Gone With the Wind," of all pictures, 30 years ago and hadn't seen each other for nearly that long. Running down the list of people who worked both in front of and behind the camera on that picture, the two came to the realization that Olivia De Havilland is about the only one still alive—aside from them. Brooks is now retired and living in Hawaii. Crail is semi-retired, but still active in photography...
